Transition board attempts to diffuse name issue

by Jeff Wilson

The transition board for newly created Centre Hastings Township held its first meeting and dealt with several issues, including trying to diffuse negative feelings over the new municipality's name.

The meeting was held at the Huntingdon Township hall in Ivanhoe, on Tuesday, July 29.

Madoc Village Reeve Tom Deline brought up the issue of some public opposition to the new municipality's name Centre Hastings, which has been brought up by local newspapers and residents of the two communities, at the public meetings prior to amalgamation.

Deline suggested that the two wards for election purposes, be formally named Madoc and Huntingdon wards in an effort to maintain the names and to diffuse the emotional issue with residents of the two communities. Each election ward encompasses the current boundaries of each of the two municipalities.

"I don't want to see this (the municipality's name) become a stumbling block in the process," Deline said.

Deline defended the council's choice of name, saying "it allows for other things", referring to future inclusion of Madoc Township, and possibly other area municipalities.

Councillor Larry Mitz told the committee the name issue and the two communities' worries about losing their identities is an emotional issue, but felt naming the two wards after the former municipalities "will go a long way in alleviating that".

The board passed a resolution to formally name the wards Madoc and Huntingdon wards.

Also on the topic of elections, the board voted in favor of using a mail-in ballot system for the coming November election, in conjunction with the traditional polling stations on election day.

In other issues, the Chair, Vice Chair and Recording Secretary were chosen by the board. Huntingdon Township Deputy-Reeve Walton Reid was elected as Chair, while Madoc Village Deputy-Reeve Mary S. Pigden was elected Vice Chair, and Madoc Village Clerk/Treasurer Doug Parks was chosen to be Recording Secretary.

A procedural bylaw for the transition board was passed.

The board held a discussion on having a joint building/bylaw enforcement officer. Members asked the clerks to formulate a job description that will include providing septic inspections, so the position can be advertised, applicants can be interviewed and someone selected prior to Jan. 1, 1998.

The board discussed the septic inspection issue at length. The board has received offers to provide the service by the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, as well as Quinte Conservation. The board agreed to defer the matter to a November 1997 meeting.

The board asked that quotations be obtained from Cowan Insurance and ROMA for the new municipality, to take effect Jan. 1, 1998.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 6 at the Huntingdon Township hall, beginning at 9 a.m. The agenda will be to discuss the structure of senior municipal staff positions. The meeting will consist of a public and a closed in-camera session.

Derry swims for another worthy cause

by Jeff Wilson

Another year, another swim for another worthy cause, it's become a routine for Madoc's Kim Derry.

Kim will hit the water, for the third straight year, early this morning at the Four Loons on south end of Westlenkoon Lake and swim to the north end and finish at Tanglewood. The swim will cover 7.5 miles.

The proceeds from this year's swim will go to Ability Camp, a camp for people with Cerebral Palsy, located in Prince Edward County. The camp is run by Kevin Hickling and his wife Kim. The couple opened the year-around school in January 1995, after their daughter Kaitlin, who has cerebral palsy, attended a three-week summer camp in Toronto, which taught conductive education, in an effort to assist the children in becoming more self-reliant. After attending the camp twice, and seeing the progress his daughter made, Kevin decided to create his own school. He travelled to Hungary to learn the system first-hand. The school was featured in an article in Reader's Digest. In the article it stated students come from as far away as Bermuda, to attend a five-week session. When he opened the school, Hickling hired two teachers from Hungary, the article said.

Kim is hoping the funds raised will be enough to create an outdoor activity centre at the school.

Anyone wishing to donate to Kim Swim, can make a donation at the Madoc, Quinte or Picton OPP detachments, MDS Laboratories or directly to Wally Sawkins.

Last year, Kim swam to raise money for the bone marrow registry, in the name of Tom St. Germain, who was diagnosed with leukaemia.

Township supports skate park proposal

by Jeff Wilson

Huntingdon Township, amalgamating partner with Madoc Village, has sent a letter of support for the construction of a skate park on the Whytock Park property.

In a letter to the village, Huntingdon Township Council stated it "supports the project to construct a skate park at the Whytock property in principle and further recommend that an advisory group be formed consisting of the users and other interested parties to oversee the operation and take measures to protect the investment".

Huntingdon council received a letter from Beverly McNab requesting support for the project and Cynthia Johnston also attended a recent council meeting on behalf of a group of young people wanting to move ahead with the project. Johnston informed council that the group felt it could obtain funds from corporate sponsors in the village to get the project underway. She asked that council support the park project in principle and provide any equipment, if possible.

Councillor Larry Mitz agreed to inform the township recreation committee of the project at their next meeting.

A group of young people first approached Madoc Village Council on the idea of creating an area for skateboarders and rollerbladers, during a regular council meeting in May.

It was suggested that a suitable site might be found on the Whytock park property. After a tour of the park the young people found an area that they felt was suitable for a skate park.

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to the kind people of Madoc who helped our family after car trouble left us stranded in the middle of a holiday trip to St. Catharines from Ottawa. Mr. Wayne Hagerman noticed that our family of five was experiencing car difficulty and he quickly offered to seek out his friend, Mr. Eric Sandford of Pigen Motors. It was not likely that motorists stranded on a Sunday morning are going to meet a local car dealer willing to listen to warranty repair troubles before breakfast. Thank you very much Mr. Sandford. You got us on the road again and we got to feel the thrill of disaster avoided. Thanks also the service manager at Pigen Motors. Jim made us feel that our repairs were a priority and this buoyed our spirits as we salvaged what we could of our trip to visit family.

OPP launch traffic crackdown

Madoc/Quinte OPP launched a three-hour traffic crackdown on Thursday, July 24 in response to numerous complaints.

Officers issued 12 speeding violations, including one for 87 km/h in a 40-km/h zone, five failing to surrender insurance violations and one failing to surrender ownership.

Peace Park opens art gallery

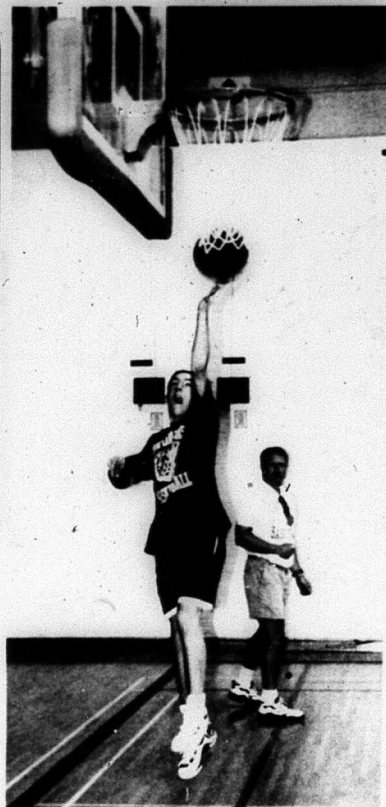

The Lester B. Pearson Peace Park located on Highway 7, east of Madoc, has built an art gallery in the east section of the Peace Park Guest House.

The gallery will accommodate approximately 50 paintings. Local artists are invited to show their paintings in the gallery at no cost for a two week period, commencing Aug. 1.

Free coffee and light refreshments will be available at all exhibitions.

Local artists who wish to have an exhibition should contact Priscilla Cadwell at 478-6337 for reservations.

The Centre Hastings Secondary School Basketball Camp is put on by teacher Peter Mangold. The week-long camp is open to males and females from Grades 6 to 9. This is the third year for the camp. This year there were nine participants. Mangold said that the players come in for three hours a day and spend half the time working on drills to improve their fundamentals and the other half of their time is spent playing games and scrimmaging. The camp gives the young people the chance to something different during the summer months, as well as help develop their basketball skills so they can compete with their Belleville rivals, many of whom play on rep teams. Mangold said he has seen a marked improvement in the skills of the players taking part in the camp over last few years. He credits the popularity of NBA star Michael Jordan and the second-year Toronto Raptors, NBA franchise with making basketball more popular.

Danford announces Rural Job Strategy poster competition

Hastings-Peterborough MPP Harry Danford would like to invite rural children and youth to design a poster which will be used to illustrate and promote the new Rural Job Strategy.

"Time and again I have said that rural young people are the future of the agriculture industry," Danford said. "I am glad that young people from rural Ontario have been given an opportunity to participate in the development of the Rural Job Strategy. I want to make sure that we take advantage of the wealth of imagination that exists in the young minds of rural Ontario."

The three-year, $30 million Rural Job Strategy was announced in the 1997 Ontario budget, designed to stimulate job creation, promote investment, develop export growth and increase business competitiveness in rural Ontario. A summer jobs program for rural youth is a major component of the new program.

Rural children and youth are asked to illustrate the new strategy using one of the themes: "Improving country living through the use of technology"; "Opening new doors: bringing my community to the world" and "Quality - the strength of rural Ontario".

The contest is open to all rural children and youth aged 6-17. Entries will be judged in three groups: age 6-9; 10-13 and 14-17. One finalist will be chosen from each age group and a grand prize winner will be picked from the three finalists. The winner in each category will receive a framed copy of his or her poster.

The grand prize winner's drawing will be used to illustrate and promote the new Rural Job Strategy, and he or she will receive a framed copy of his or her poster from provincial Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs Noble Villeneuve at the Plowing Match in Ivy (near Barrie) in September. The contest will be judged by a group of rural stakeholders.

Application forms will be available from the local OMAFRA offices and on the ministry's website at <http://www.gov.on.ca/omafra>. All entries must be received by Aug. 18, 1997 at Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs, Communications Branch, 10th Floor, 77 Grenville Ave. Toronto, Ontario, M5B 1B3.

Income support for disabled

Ontario -- The Community and Social Services Minister announced, in May, a proposal to create a new income support program for people with disabilities.

Minister Janet Ecker plans to introduce legislation which would create the Ontario Disability Support Program (ODSP). The ODSP would move people with disabilities off the welfare system and provide them with greater opportunities for independence.

"In the common sense revolution we said we would create a new separate income support program for people with disabilities," said Ecker.

"We have been told by people with disabilities that the current system does not meet their needs. We have listened and we intend to implement their suggestion."

Ontario presently provides the highest level of disability support among Canadian provinces. People who are receiving disability benefits, under the Family Benefits Program (FBA) would have their benefits protected under the proposed program.

If passed, the new program would: Provide an income support program designed to meet the unique needs of people with disabilities.

Sailboarders must bear in mind that a wetsuit is not an approved PFD.

abilities; ensure that benefits would be protected if a job attempt fails; remove the requirement for people with disabilities to go through eligibility re-testing every one or two years; except those in cases where their condition is expected to improve; allow people with disabilities to keep more of their liquid assets and compensation awards and provide a higher limit on life insurance policies; enable people with disabilities to benefit more from gifts and inheritances so that families can provide a more secure future for their adult children.

"We have listened carefully to people with disabilities about their concerns with the existing system," said Ecker.

"They have told us they don't like labels. They want eligibility criteria that do not limit their opportunities by labelling them as permanently unemployed."

"We recognize that many people with disabilities can and do want to work. The government intends to support them to secure meaningful jobs to reach their potential."

The legislation would allow for better supports to employment for people with disabilities who want to work.

"People with disabilities have told us they want access to jobs, better links with employers, and support that remove barriers to employment so they can use their strengths and abilities to achieve their goals," added Ecker. "We are proposing changes that have been recommended time and time again."

The proposed system would have a number of features to help people with disabilities take advantage of employment opportunities. For example, it would allow people with disabilities to accept work without worrying about not having their benefits reinstated quickly, if for any reason they could not continue with the job.

"We expect the new direction will improve opportunities for people with disabilities."

Social housing reform before transfer to municipalities

Ontario -- An advisory council on social housing reform announced by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing will provide recommendations on how to improve Ontario's social housing system.

"We know that there are problems with social housing. People who live and work in the system have told us it's not working as well as it should," Minister Al Leach said. "We're listening and this advisory council will help us reform the system before we transfer social housing to municipalities."

abilities who want to work," said Jim Dreiling, president of Goodwill in Toronto, one of Ontario's oldest and most successful providers of employment services to people with disabilities.

People with disabilities have told the government that they have to wait too long to receive the support they need to get a job. The proposed system would streamline administration and make it easier for people with disabilities to receive the support they need.

"The proposed program responds to the concerns of people with disabilities and represents significant improvement to income and employment support. Our government is taking a leadership role in meeting the needs of people with disabilities," concluded Ecker.

The advisory council will continue on page 4

Child safety emphasized on civic holiday weekend

With the arrival of the Civic Holiday weekend, the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) is asking everyone to pause at mid-summer to consider the safety of children.

The onus is on adults to act responsibly to prevent tragedies involving youngsters.

All-terrain vehicles and personal water craft are not toys and must be treated with respect. To avoid injury to operators and others, these powerful vehicles must be handled with care.

Children and youths should be adequately instructed and supervised while enjoying the outdoors and must be equipped with the proper safety gear, as serious injury can also be suffered by participating in non-powered leisure activities on land or in water, such as bicycling, skateboarding, roller blading, canoeing and windsurfing.

Adults must also make the right decision regarding the use of placement of a child restraint in a vehicle and remember not to expose smaller children to the risk of harm from an air bag.

Last year during the Civic Holiday weekend, six people and four boats were killed in traffic and boating incidents investigated by the OPP.

On the same weekend in 1995, the OPP investigated eight roadway deaths and seven boating fatalities. Frequently, alcohol is a contributing factor when people are injured or killed.

The OPP wants everyone to have a safe summer, whether engaged in seasonal activities or merely travelling to a favorite destination.

By putting safety first, residents and visitors to the province may enjoy another holiday weekend and a contribution of a pleasurable summer.

Goal, highest achievement in Canada states Snobelen

Ontario -- Students in grades 1-8 will read, write and spell at an earlier age and have sharper problem-solving skills, under a new and more rigorous curriculum introduced June 13 by Education and Training Minister John Snobelen.

The math and language components of the new curriculum is to start in all Ontario schools this fall.

"By taking the lead in new curriculum development, we're responding to parents' concerns that Ontario students are not keeping pace with their counterparts in other countries and other provinces," Snobelen said. "Rigorous curriculum, combined with regular testing, and standardized report cards will allow parents to see how their child is progressing year to year."

The new Ontario curriculum replaces the common curriculum introduced by the previous government in 1995. Parents and teachers found it to be too vague and broad and resulted in an uneven patchwork of local curricula developed at the board level across the province, said Snobelen.

Under the new curriculum, for example, students will be expected to write in simple and complete sentences using proper punctuation by the end of grade 1. By the time they finish grade 3, they will have learned how to organize their information in short paragraphs with correct use of nouns, verbs, adjectives and adverbs. Similarly, in mathematics, students will be expected to do two-step problems with decimals in grade 5 and understand exponents in grade 7.

"Education is a priority for this government," commented Snobelen. "Our goal is to have the highest achievement in Canada. This rigorous and challenging curriculum - which spells out exactly what children should learn in each and every grade - will raise the standard of education for all students in Ontario. From now on, teachers and parents will have a better understanding of what children should learn, and they should be able to monitor in class tests."

The new curriculum is the centerpiece of the province's education reform, which is designed to prove student achievement and increase accountability to parents in the education system. The minister expects the new rigorous curriculum, combined with province-wide testing, standardized report cards and new teaching standards to ensure Ontario students receive a high quality education.

Snobelen also outlines plans for teacher training for the new curriculum starting with orientation this summer.

Social housing reform

look at the current system of administration, financing and regulation of the social housing portfolio, and provide recommendations to the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing for future legislation.

The council will be led by MacCarson, chair of OHC Board. The Association of Municipalities, the Ontario Non-Profit Housing Association and the Co-operative Housing Federation - Ontario Region, will participate in the work of the council.

"I am pleased that these highly experienced individuals and organizations have agreed to accept this challenging task," said Leach. "We look forward to hearing the council's recommendations."

The government announced as part of the "Who Does What" initiative social housing will be referred to municipalities an exchange of services involves cutting social education property tax 50 percent. The realty will help the government meet its goals of reducing education costs under local, providing better services for consumers and relieving the pressure on residential property taxes.

The advisory council is examining a number of areas relating to the housing portfolio, including roles and responsibilities in social housing; the subsidy structure; financing, ongoing capital and administrative issues and Ontario Housing Corporation structure and administration.

Foodlanders lose tough match

Norwood-Warkworth's Scott Variety Under 11's blanked the Norwood Foodland crew 3-0 in a hard-fought battle Tuesday. Playing short-handed for the fourth week in a row, the Foodlanders put on a valiant effort. Untried Rob Henderson took over the net-minding duties but was scored on by Sadie Greenwood, Maggie Stanley and Kevin Blass.

Several shots by Norwood's Ridgeway either went wide or over the net failing to put a mark on the score sheet.

Strong work by mid-fielders Jessi-Lyn Watson, Katrina Ayotte and Cydney Langill kept the ball moving in the right direction but the Warkworth goalie was hot and denied two blistering shots from Amber Brightman and Jake Wynne.

Good defensive work from Derek McGowan and Miranda Rigby denied Warkworth several other chances to score.

The Foodlanders travel to Colborne for their next game. The team would like to thank their sponsor, Paul Jolicouer of Cornergate Foodland for the pop and fruit chews he donated to the team.

Warkworth's Jason Walsh Heritage Classic winner

By Catherine Reynolds

Kingston—On the gentle slopes of the Garrison Golf and Country Club course on July 22, the 12th annual Heritage Classic golf tournament raised close to $5,000 for the Children's Wish Foundation. The money goes to help terminally ill children.

After dominating the champion's title for three years running, long-hitting Kirk Weatherdon was forced to make room for Warkworth teen-ager Jason Walsh.

Walsh, a member of the St. Thomas University Bobcats' golf team in the NAIA Conference last year in Miami, shot a one-under-par 71. Walsh turned in a solid performance on the demanding Garrison Club layout.

Nearly 80 entries took part in the tourney held at CFB Kingston and hosted by The Heritage weekly newspaper and Township Pro Hardware. A total of 72 participants competed in 1996.

Kingston area resident Dave Morgan took home first place in the longest drive contest, followed close behind by Stephen Skinner.

In the women's division, first place for the longest drive was earned by Helen McCartney while Jean Pangelas took second place.

Blaine Wickens of Marmora earned a victory in the closest-to-the-pin competition with Marty Stover placing runner-up.

To the disappointment of the golfers, a sky blue $14,000 Harley Davidson motorcycle (donated by Steve Bray of Motorsport Plus) and the $10,000 and $5,000 hole-in-one prizes (sponsored, respectively, by Waugh Holway Co. and The Brick) went unclaimed.

Ideal weather conditions notwithstanding, a fashionable leather and velour vest (donated by Doug Treleaven and Resort Club Interwest) was worn home by Cembal Publications' president Joe Cembal, winner of the putting contest.

Proceeds from the tournament are directed towards The Children's Wish Foundation, an organization that helps terminally ill children fulfil their dreams.

Next assignment for Gayle is Colborne mural painting

Building murals is growing in popularity and what a sight to see as you pass through towns and villages.

The village of Colborne has commissioned professional artist Gayle Crosman-Brown of Warkworth to paint one of their series of murals. It will be located on the main street, on the east wall of lawyer Peter Hustler's building. The subject will be the interior of the Registry Office built in 1860, with old meeting new.

The registry office is now a museum and art gallery, featuring works of local artists.

The artist, Gayle Crosman-Brown, returns to her roots for this project. Her ancestors, the McMurrays, Martins and Fergusons, settled in and around Colborne over 150 years ago. Gayle has returned from her travels to the Arctic, Calgary and most recently Vancouver Island.

Gayle will also be teaching projects from the book this fall in various locations including Loyalist College in Brighton, Homer's Crafts and Gananakara Art in Port Hope, Country Craft Supplies in Port Perry as well as back on Vancouver Island.

She has also been invited to teach next year in Toronto, Halifax and Japan at Decorative Art conventions.

to settle in Warkworth.

Crosman-Brown is an award-winning artist who has been busy these past 20 years, drawing pen and inks, some for a historical homes book called "Under This Roof" and teaching over 400 students to paint including remote mountain communities on Vancouver Island.

This past April Gayle had an art instructional book called "Signs by Gayle" published and distributed by Eas'l Publications of St. Louis, Mo. It is being distributed around the world.

Gayle will also be teaching projects from the book this fall in various locations including Loyalist College in Brighton, Homer's Crafts and Gananakara Art in Port Hope, Country Craft Supplies in Port Perry as well as back on Vancouver Island.

She has also been invited to teach next year in Toronto, Halifax and Japan at Decorative Art conventions.

In February, 1998, "Paint Works" magazine will feature one of Gayle's projects—a violin resting in a velvet chair.

Locally Crosman-Brown has painted mini-murals of 15 feet on a 40-foot commercial trailer for Frank Van Meeuwen of Diamond Enterprises and Book Publishers of Brighton.

This mural consisted of a Sawyer-Massey steam tractor in a farm scene. The mural will be on display at the Massey Museum this month for their 150th anniversary. Massey plans on featuring the muralized truck and trailer in their international news letter.

Gayle has started a second book for Eas'l but has put it on hold to do Colborne's mural before releasing her new book by Jan., 1998.

It will be like a reunion this summer as Gayle paints and visits with old friends

Hogan mystique inspires Jesse towards goal

By Rolly Ethier

The passing of the legendary Ben Hogan undoubtedly didn't go unnoticed by promising young Canadian golfing phenom Jesse Collinson. For Hogan was Jesse's idol.

Collinson had set the Canadian golf fraternity on its collective heels in 1975 when he became the youngest player ever to capture the national junior and juvenile championships. He was only 15 years of age.

Later that year he played an exhibition round at Warkworth Golf Club along with Jason Walsh and showed a lot of talent.

Hogan has always been a role model for Collinson, who actually started his career by playing in this region's junior mini-tour launched by Warkworth's Burt Purvis.

Collinson has adopted a Hogan-like work ethic to improve his game. He has been known to spend three straight hours in the same bunker with five empty range buckets resting at his feet. He admits he wore out the grooves on two wedges practising his bunker play.

Last year young Collinson, a member at the Scarborough Golf and Country Club, played a staggering total of 332 rounds.

If Jesse fails to succeed in his golfing endeavours it won't be for a lack of trying. On a typical day he's up at 7 a.m., practises for an hour, plays 18 holes, has lunch, practises for another hour, and plays another 18 holes. He then practises until dark, rain or shine, and heads home to get some sleep. Then he does it all over again the next day.

A professional at Toronto's Cedarbrae Golf Club, Dave Govan, calls Collinson the most committed, dedicated golfer he's ever seen.

After having already competed for Canada in last year's World Junior Team Championships in Japan, Collinson is hopeful of landing a college scholarship in the U.S. and eventually winding up on the pro tour.

A fiercely competitive fire burns within this stocky teenager. He yearns to become a big achiever at the game he loves so much. And a number of knowledgeable golf people are betting he makes the grade.

Hogan's renowned dedication will no doubt continue to inspire Jesse in his goals in golf.

Former North School students, teachers hold their first reunion

By John Campbell

Closed more than three decades ago, S.S. No. 1, better known as North School, continues to occupy a cherished corner in the memories of many of its former students and teachers. Last Saturday, 73 of them gathered at the senior citizens centre in Havelock to share a trip down memory lane, a trip fuelled by faded photographs, school texts, inkwells, report cards and anecdotes. Their destination: a one-room schoolhouse built in 1863 atop a knoll near a fork on the 11th Concession one mile north of Highway 7.

The reunion, the school's first, was organized by Bernadette Simpson (nee Logan), who graduated from the school in 1953 and later went on to teach for 35 years. It was something of a family affair for the Trenton resident as her sister Bernadine Rosebush and brothers Clare, Randall and John Logan were on hand as well.

Clare Logan was the first to accept his sister's invitation to address the throng with tales of days spent at the rustic institution. A woodcarver by trade, he said his interest in art was awakened by his first teacher, Audrey McKay, one of five teachers who made it to the reunion. He brought with him a sample of his work, a recreation of the school house which he intends to donate to Havelock's new cultural museum, the old railway station.

His recollections included having to stuff four-ft. sticks of maple into a box stove with an opening only slightly larger than the wood itself. For a little kid "that was some trick."

"That was the only stove that would take a four ft. stick that ... I ever came across," he said.

Logan said the children "didn't go outside too much" because stock owned by a farmer with adjoining property used to wander into the schoolyard

"and he had one of the largest bulls I ever laid eyes on, an ugly old bugger." He'd begin pawing the ground "if you ever dared look out the window."

Logan, who started at North School in 1939, also remembers one of his classmates, Joel Harnden, being "pretty good at climbing trees" on the school property whereas he was a dismal failure, whose first and only attempt at scaling trees left him flat on his back with the wind knocked out of him.

Minutes later Harnden revealed why he had become so adept at climbing.

"There was a certain lady who went to school there (who) chased me up there every day at noon hour."

For more than an hour the memories flowed as students from different generations and some of their teachers - including Ruby McConnell who began teaching at North School 72 years ago - recited incidents and routines they have never forgotten: enduring long treks to and from the school in the dead of winter; slogging through mud and water in the spring; sliding down icy slopes using cardboard; braving the cold to use the outhouse; and; taking part in Christmas concerts.

The two young whippersnappers in the crowd, classmates John Logan and former Ontario Agriculture Minister Elmer Buchanan, drew the most laughs with their recollections.

"My good buddy Elmer and I spent most of our years butting heads, seeing who was going to run the show," Logan said. "We never did settle it."

"We spent a great deal of our time tweaking the teachers, pressing the envelope, getting the strap, writing out lines, standing in the corner," he said. Once while building a hut in the woods they started a small fire to keep the mosquitoes away which led to an alarm being raised.

"We were in serious trouble for a long time after that."

Logan also recalled with fondness the "fabulous stone fights" that he, Buchanan and others in their group used to wage. "Kids are such wussies to day," he joked. "I don't know what's wrong with them."

The reason they had so much fun was that they "were allowed to be kids" while today's youth "aren't kids anymore."

Buchanan, who is vice-principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, acknowledged he and the other boys used to fight regularly but "you would be fighting with somebody at recess and you were the best of friends by the end of the day or the next day."

Their boyish pranks included persuading a "green" teacher from Belleville to stake out a track around the perimeter of a hayfield across the road from North School, even though the students, most of whom lived on farms, "knew better" as they were well aware of the problems a rock-lined field would cause when it came time for the hay to be cut.

Buchanan spoke fondly of the community spirit one-room schoolhouses engendered.

"You look at what's happening in the country today, the whole idea of community is gradually being destroyed ... through, to be a little bit political, the amalgamation of municipalities ... You lose the character of the town and townships."

North School brought people together but that sense of kinship among residents is, steadily being eroded, he said, so to hold a reunion of those who once experienced what it was like to attend a one-room schoolhouse "is a very useful exercise."

Marjorie Wilson, who taught at North School and Buchanan, said she "thought an awful lot" of her two former students who served as the school caretakers, for which they were each paid $7 a month.

"It was their conversations after school when I was getting the next day's work done that was the best part."

"I was very glad to make my acquaintance with them again."

Mrs. Wilson, who was the last person to teach at North School, said she will always remember the many kindnesses shown her by the parents of her students.

"I don't think there was one parent who I couldn't depend on if I really needed them," she said.

The trustees also "were really, really a great support."

Wilson said the three years she taught at North School were "the happiest times of (her) life." Those who never had "the privilege" of teaching in a rural school "really missed something."

North School closed in 1963 when the decision was made to transport the children to either Havelock or Norwood, depending on whether they lived in Belmont or Dummer townships.

Simpson said, a second reunion will likely be held in three years, based on the support shown for the idea in responses given to a survey handed out at last Saturday's function.

A videotape of the afternoon was made and a group portrait taken.

Former North School student, Elmer Buchanan attended the school's first reunion held last Saturday. The one-room school house was closed over three decades ago.

Single vehicle accident on Highway 7

A woman was injured after a car rolled into the ditch along Highway 7, just west of the Colonial Hotel, in the morning on Sunday, July 27.

The Madoc Township Fire Department received a call about the accident at 11:40 a.m.

Chief Darren Morrison said the initial call stated that a person was trapped in a vehicle, so he contacted the Madoc Village Rescue Unit, just in case extrication equipment was needed.

When the department arrived on the scene, the ambulance had already arrived, Morrison said his firefighters helped remove the woman from the vehicle and assisted with traffic control.

At press time the identity of the woman and the extent of her injuries were not available.

Visiting the Holocaust museum

The following is a Centre Hastings Secondary School student's account of a trip to the Holocaust museum in Toronto.

I never would think that humans could do something so horrible to one another. The Holocaust was a war of death for the Jewish people, in which six million were killed, five million men and women, and one million children. The German people were perhaps no different than us, until Hitler started to speak out on his view, on the Jewish people and how it was because of them that the Germans lost during the First World War. With Hitler's power, speech he had started the evil of the Holocaust, and the Nazis had been born. Hitler took something that was good and made it evil. The swastika was once a good thing until he took control of it.

People go through life, and of course, life's little problems. I have had the problems when I was young, when my parents got a divorce, and I thought that was bad. The man I met on May 8, 1997, was at the Holocaust museum. He was a young Jewish boy of only 16-years-old when he went to a concentration camp. When my class and I were listening to the story of what he went through, we could (or maybe just me), could not understand how he could stand there and talk about the Holocaust and what he went through without breaking down. He lost a lot in the horrible Holocaust, including his parents, three sisters, and one brother. He did not see his one living brother much at all. He was sent to many different concentration camps, each one worse than the last. His family's trade was hat making, but he told the S.S. officer that he was a carpenter, for which he was allowed to live. He had to wear white clothes with blue strips down them, and wooden shoes.

At one of the concentration camps, he had to unload coal from trains all day, until he found out about the employment office. When he went an S.S. officer picked 10 people to learn how to weld, and he was one of the 10. He was taught for seven months, and he thought it was a good job because the welders were very hot, and it was winter time. At the end of the seven months only four passed the test, and he was one of the four. He had to weld bars together and then go up 20 floors and weld up there. In his mind he would think that if he fell off the unsteady planks then he would just be dead, but he did not want to die, he wanted to get through this. He knew that if he died, that another person would take over. Every day trains would come in with thousands of Jewish people, so if someone died, the Germans would not care because they had thousands of other people to fill their jobs.

One day he went to the doctor with a nail right through his foot, which he did not know was there because he was in so much pain. He woke on the wooden table where the doctor had done surgery. He found out that he had a cast on his leg, and the doctor gave him a pair of crutches to walk.

For the next month he did not have to work, and the camp he was now at was Schlinder's concentration camp where the Jewish people were not treated like slaves. Schlinder let him recover, and told the German officers that he was working.

He was many things in his life. He saw thousands of Jewish people being led to the gas chamber. He also saw smoke coming from the crematoriums. He saw Dr. Mengele, who was a doctor who performed inhumane tests on people. He also saw the results of this torture on humans.

This man never really started his life until after the Holocaust. The Holocaust was over on May 8, 1945, when the Russians had come into the base. He went back to the house where his family made hats, but the Polish family would not give it back to him and...he had nothing.

We went to Czechoslovakia where his last brother was staying at one of the camps, where people could stay after the war if they had no place to go. He met a girl at that camp, and they started to date. One year later they got married, and after another year and a half she was pregnant, and they were both moving to Canada where they would live after this horrible war.

When they arrived in Canada he did not have a penny in his pocket, but he got a job that paid 50 cents an hour. He got $20 a month, of which $10 went for the rent. When the baby came he had to get a second job. He tried to go to school at night, but it didn't work out.

When I met this man I could feel good stuff coming from him; almost a feeling of pure good. At the end of his talk with our class, we all left wondering how much heart this man must have. I was having a cigarette outside when we were ready to get on the bus and he came outside to leave. My friend and I said it was a very moving story. He told us to stay in school because we will need it.

Talking to him face to face was weird for me because I kept on thinking about all the stuff that he has seen during the Holocaust and how he could think like normal about it.

I don't know why Hitler, and the Germans, thought that the Jewish were nothing, because they're just like anyone else, with only one thing different and that's their religion. God did not put us on this earth to fight and kill one another, nor having someone being better than anyone else. We're all the same inside.

Debate surfaces over dust suppressant for roads

A debate has surfaced over the environmental effects of a dust suppressant used on rural roads, after the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) recently called it a "toxic soup of contaminants".

The material, called Dombind, is a brown liquid with a faint odor of burnt sugar that is used to keep dust down on gravel roads. It is produced by Dometar Inc.'s cardboard mill in Trenton.

Dombind is offered free to townships willing to haul it and is routinely sprayed on gravel roads in more than 80 municipalities in Eastern Ontario.

Locally, both Huntingdon and Madoc Townships use Dombind on their gravel roads. Huntingdon Township has used Dombind for over 20 years, while Madoc Township has just begun solely using Dombind for economic reasons. Huntingdon Township council members stated they didn't have any concerns about Dombind, with the exception of Councillor Larry Mitz, who requested a report from Dometar on the make-up of Dombind a couple of years ago. He said that the report wasn't as specific as he would have liked and therefore hasn't alleviated his concerns. Deputy Reeve Walton Reid said that the township does not apply Dombind on roads near waterways and respects requests by residents not to have the material spread in front of their homes. Madoc Township follows the Ministry of Environment and Energy guidelines when applying Dombind and is satisfied with this process.

WWF said in a statement last Friday that an analysis shows "Dombind is a toxic soup of contaminants including, dioxins and furans, high levels of phenols, and other chemicals which are released during the pulping process".

The group said it fears that Dombind could harm wildlife, livestock, pets, water quality and human health.

"Rural townships may think a free dust suppressant is a great deal, but the real costs to the environment and health may far outweigh any savings," Julia Langer, director of wildlife toxicol-

Queensborough residents work to restore Mill Pond

by Jeff Wilson

Queensborough residents put forth a "true community effort", as they came together in an attempt to restore the Mill Pond to its former splendor.

Over the years, a railway tie that helped hold the water in the pond had dislodged and there were cracks in the cement of the dam allowing water to escape, according to Elaine Kapusta.

With thoughts of past fond memories of swimming in the Mill Pond, 43 people attended a clean-up held on Thursday, July 31, that was organized by Krista Baumhour. The clean-up crew was made up of people of all ages including teenagers as well as older people.

Following a successful day, a barbecue was held to celebrate the workers' efforts.

Following the clean-up a work day was held on Monday, Aug. 4. During the day, the old railway ties were removed and new railway ties were floated into the water, and with the assistance of a backhoe were put into place. Ludwik Kapusta repaired the crack in the cement of the dam, prior to the work day.

Special thanks to Brian Ramsay for donating the logs and providing his skidder to secure the backhoe. Bob Rose for cutting the logs and Harold Ramsay for delivering the logs. Allan Ramsay for use of a backhoe to put in the ties. Thanks to everyone who participated in the clean-up and work days.

Elaine says the water level continues to climb and the pond should be restored in a short while.

Transition Board selects senior staff positions

by Jeff Wilson

The Transition Board for the Township of Centre Hastings has selected senior staff positions for the new municipality.

In a meeting held on Wednesday, Aug. 6 at the Huntingdon Township hall in Ivanhoe, the board, made up of members from Madoc Village and Huntingdon Township councils, first passed a motion to fill the two senior positions for the new municipality from existing staff of the two municipalities.

Huntingdon Township Clerk-Treasurer Bonnie Jones provided the board with a job description for the two senior positions, revised from descriptions created by the Stirling-Rawdon transition board. The two positions are described as Clerk/Deputy Treasurer/Deputy Tax Collector and Treasurer/Tax Collector/Deputy Clerk.

The board passed a motion to defer passage of the job descriptions until the next meeting to allow for further study and possible revisions.

During discussion, and staff were asked for their input. Jones stated she was willing to accept the Treasurer position and Village Clerk-Treasurer. Doug Parks said he was willing to accept either position, as long as he was in line for one of the two.

The board passed a motion to select Doug Parks as the Clerk/Deputy Treasurer/Deputy Tax Collector and Bonnie Jones as the Treasurer/Tax Collector/Deputy Clerk for the Township of Centre Hastings.

Madoc Village Reeve Tom Deline questioned whether a top position should be created from the senior positions. Township Councillor Dave Schulz stated that during the first year it is important to have a commitment to merge smoothly be made, and the decision of a top position should be left to the new council. Village Councillor Crichton Harrop agreed saying that there was no need for a top position at this time. Township Councillor Larry Mitz stated that since the job descriptions had not been approved, provisions could be made "to move in the direction" of creating a senior position.

Prior to the discussion on senior staff, Schulz questioned whether the board should just be talking about the top two positions of all staff. Deline stated that it was his opinion only the two top positions should be determined and then utilize senior staff to provide input to the board on other staff.

On other issues, Huntingdon Township board members questioned village representatives on the make-up of the Madoc Hydro Commission and its relationship with council. Deline stated that hydro commission has a manager and one part-time employee position. The commission has two elected commissioners and the Reeve automatically sits as a member. Deline informed the board members that according to new legislation, the two commissioners will be appointed by the new council, rather than be elected.

On the issue of computer systems, Deline suggested that an outside person with computer expertise be hired to review the two systems and make recommendations to the board. Mitz disagreed saying that hiring someone at this time was premature, and staff should be requested to form a list of existing hardware and software. There was also discussion about utilizing the auditors. A motion was passed to defer a recommendation to hire auditors. Humpage Tax Co. McDonald to review the two computers systems until a quote can be obtained.

On the issue of the election, the board agreed that one advance poll be held in each municipality, and on election day, Nov. 10, a polling station will be held in Madoc and two stations will be set up in the Huntingdon Township hall. These polls will be held in conjunction with the mail-in system that will also be available to voters.

The issue of remuneration to members of the transition board for attending meetings was discussed. The members decided against taking money for the meetings. During the discussion, Harrop stated he would donate his portion to

Using the backhoe that was secured by a skidder, new railway ties were floated into the water and replaced old ties that were allowing the water to escape from the pond.

Forty-three people from the Queensboro community attended a clean-up day at the old Mill Pond held on Thursday, July 31. The clean-up was organized by Krista Baumhauer.

Each tie was manually placed in on one side, while the backhoe raised the other end up and the end was cut to fit into the space. After placing a couple of ties the workers got into a real rhythm.

Marine Tip of the Week

The collision regulations require every vessel to maintain a constant lookout. You must also use every available means, such as radar and radio, to determine whether there is a risk of collision.

Under normal circumstances, power-driven vessels must keep clear of sailboats, rowboats and canoes.

If you operate a boat, an air cushion vehicle, waterskis, surfboard or any towed objects in a dangerous manner, you are guilty of a criminal offence and liable to imprisonment or a fine.

Under the Criminal Code of Canada, this offence includes:

- 1) operating a vessel when impaired
- 2) towing a person on skis in the dark

3) towing a person on skis without another keeping watch

4) failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

Warning: In a narrow channel, a power-driven vessel less than 20 m long or a sailing vessel must not hamper the safe passage of a vessel that can navigate only inside such a channel.

Water Well Fracturing

1-888-286-1116

Hydro-Fracturing is the process of using water under extreme pressure to break the barrier that is preventing an underground water source from flowing freely into a well. This is not a new technology; the process has been used in oil fields for some 75 years. The technology is new to the water-well industry.

WATER WELL RECYCLING INC. has built their own hydrofracturing machine. This machine fractures the underground rock, and opens up the fissures that are blocked. Sometimes the blockage is caused by the drilling process itself.

HIGH TECHNICAL MACHINE

The high pressure components for this machine have come directly from the fields. The machine produces 4500 (pounds per square inch) and pumps up 200 GPM (gallons per minute), creating extremely high pressure in the well. The extreme high pressure opens blocked veins, producing a higher output well. Fracturing an existing drilled well, can improve the flow of the GPM, even if the well is considered dry. The cost of drilling new well can be considerable, with guarantee of water. We will hydrofracture existing well or a new well with a guarantee of increasing the present GPM - or charge.

WE DO NOT DRILL WELLS - WE GET WATER
Give us a call before you drill too far.

We service 2, 6, and 8" Wells.
We also clean Dug Wells.

Victory in fun-filled cardboard classic goes to Dooher and daughter

By Rolly Ethier

It seemed only fitting that the man who was such a driving force in bringing The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta to Campbellford ended up in the winner's circle.

Pete Dooher and his 23-year-old daughter Brandi paddled their Dooher's Bakery canoe to victory last Saturday in class one for paddles or oars. The winners navigated the 200-yard distance in a time of one minute, 20 seconds in the final heat. Scott Henderson of Fergus, in his Campbellford Mini-Storage and Car Wash entry, placed second.

Third place went to A Slim Chance piloted by Bob Pomeroy in the first Campbellford edition of the copyrighted event started 21 years ago by Commodore Richard Archer of Danville, Ill. Archer served as chief announcer for the Regatta, a job he undertakes at all of the events on The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta tour during the summer months.

Dooher credits the instruction he received from Archer in the boat building clinic held in Campbellford several weeks ago as being instrumental in his success.

Pete said he listened attentively and adhered to the three basic fundamentals: (1) build a basic flat-bottomed boat; (2) make it long enough to promote the required speed; and (3) make sure the cardboard "veins" run horizontal in the design. It paid off handsomely.

It's not that Pete is much of a boating enthusiast, he assures, because he canoes on average about once a year.

In the class two category for paddlewheels, propellers or sail, Scott Pomeroy's boat, King P.J., was the winner in a time of 2:48.

A total of 37 entries engaged in a series of heats to determine the finalists.

Instant Winners

In the "instant boat" class, Stu Porter and daughter Julia of Camlachie, Ont., took first place while Ryan Smith of Brampton placed second. Third place went to the team of Travis Beaudon and Shaun Wright of Campbellford.

Sharpe's IGA sponsored all trophies in class one while Master Submarine sponsored the Class Two trophies. Giant Tiger was the sponsor of all three awards for the "instant boats."

In the judges' selections, Cashway Lumber's majestic house boat won the Prize of the Regatta award for its most creative use of card.

Even the facts not necessarily true, says Stirling archivist

By Madeline Simpson

The Campbellford Seymour Heritage Society held its general meeting at the Heritage Centre Monday, July 21st. President Jean Tilney called the meeting to order and welcomed visitor Ann Rowe.

Business included final planning for a tour of Seymour Township, north of Highway 30, on Sunday, Aug. 24 at 1:30 p.m. Stops will be made at Seymour West Women's Institute building, Curle's Maple Sugar, West's Corners, Macouns and the hamlet of Trent River, with a visit to the home and studio of Sonja Cummings. The tour will end at the Heritage Centre with a potluck dinner.

Another Antique Road Show is being planned for Friday, Sept. 26th. Watch for further information on this event.

Franklin Linton has donated the model train sets to the Town of Campbellford. He has asked for help from the Heritage Society and from interested citizens for old pictures, postcards, etc., that show Campbellford buildings in the early days. These will be used to create models for the miniature train display.

When business concluded, board. It took some delicate handling just to get the big craft in and out of the water.

The Titanic Award for the most spectacular sinking went to Trevor Finch with his Jaws' boat. The Vogue Award for the most spectacular looking entry went to the Campbellford/Seymour Fire Department with its awe-inspiring fire truck design.

With Rosemary MacLennan dressed as Bat Girl in skin-tight black spandex and Charlene Teasdale as the carrot-topped Poison Ivy teaming up in their Batmobile, the Royal LePage Real Estate entry got the judges' approval for the Best Dressed Team Award.

The Team Spirit Award went to The Top Drawer

entry with no fewer than eight paddlers in a boat featuring a clothesline of ladies' under garments. The team delighted the crowd with their pre-race pep song and dance routine. They actually made it around the first buoy before having to abandon boat. However, the rescue boat managed to salvage the clothesline of unmentionables.

Members of the big team included Andrea Filip, Joan Filip, Amanda Sproston, Michelle Grohnwald, Dieter Grohnwald, Cindy Grohnwald, Joan Grohnwald and Adam McCarroll.

Pete Doohar was also selected recipient of the Local Individual Award donated by Bret Pro Hardwar for his dedication in helping to bring The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta to Campbellford.

Other trophy sponsors included the Royal Bank, the Toronto-Dominion Bank, Ontario Hydro, Remax Realty and Needful Things.

The entire competition at Old Mill Park lasted approximately three hours on a waterway course adjacent to the Chamber of Commerce. Approximately 800 spectators lined the banks on both sides of the waterway to watch the fun.

The Regatta tour continues today in Port Huron, Mich.

John Tilney introduced guest speaker Ivan Heiser and his wife Margit. Ivan was born in Estonia, but at seven and a half years of age, he moved with his father's and uncle's families to Germany, just when World War Two began.

Later in life he moved to Canada where he worked as an archivist for the city of Toronto from 1972-1977. He and his wife then set up their own business for the restoration of old documents. Ivan and Margit now have a market garden near Stirling.

Ivan began his talk, "Recounting Memories", by comparing the work done by archivists and historians. Archivists gather facts; historians authenticate the facts. But man does not live by facts alone, and even documented evidence may not be true, he noted.

Consider, for instance, the politicians' promises; evidence in a court of law; or the scam perpetrated by a company like Br e-X.

Most data is just fragments of the whole mosaic. With just names, birthdates and deaths, small archives can add personal entries and pictures, and supply the historian with supplementary material, corroborated by newspapers and books.

Ivan then illustrated how this is so. During World War Two, he (seven and a half-years of age) was living with his parents and family and relatives (five adults and five children) in a schoolhouse in a small German hamlet.

In 1945, as the end of the war drew near, and the British army came closer to their town, they were left without protection. The German soldiers withdrew, assuring Ivan's family that they would be safe. As artillery fire lit nearby hamlet, their refuge in the cellar, frayed and concerned for safety.

They decided to seek a safer area in a nearby town. Their flight proved treacherous. It was dark and raining, and though they managed to reach high ground, with bog on both sides, soon found they were in the path of the artillery. They retraced their steps to a vacant house at the end of the bog, and managed sleep, until they heard the sound of motor vehicle.

A fleet of enemy trucks passed their house without stopping. They were soon followed by armoured tanks that stopped outside their house. The ers decided to cross the bog, but unfortunately got stuck in the mud and water.

When the owner of the house returned, he evicted the refugees, who returned to the schoolhouse for shelter. Later, a British officer came and demanded unconditional surrender, though not a shot had been fired. He informed them war was over. These some of Ivan's memories of a momentous event in early life.

Contrast the way the British officer reported the event. "World War Two-Irish Army assumed control of a small German hamlet. No resistance. Took prisoners-five adults, five children-in schoolhouse. Equipment losses-two tanks."

Marilyn Scott thanked Ivan for this interesting account of his harrowing memories of life in World War Two.

Horse Tips & Tails

by Lorrie Tannahill

Believe it only when you see it -- part one

The old phrase "buyer beware" is a phrase which should be engraved in the minds of everyone buying a horse (or anything, for that matter).

If you own a horse, at some point you have found yourself perusing the newspaper articles, sprinting to the tack shop to try and get the first copy of the Horse

Trader, or asking everyone and anyone if they know of a "good, sound" horse for sale. You may also know this crusade begins probably the only experience which compares to buying a new car. Horrible!

We have gone to look at a "two year old black Arab, 15.3 hands". After driving for two hours, it was a bay half-blood of "something", at least four years old and more like 13 hands. Now, I find myself wondering if these people are truly colour blind and own a ruler different from mine, or if it is just a pitch to try and attract an unsuspecting buyer.

Yes, I do believe there are people out there who will try to take advantage of a new horse lover who would like to own their own horse. Call me crazy if you like.

But, how do you know a good horse from a bad one? Well, to be fair, I don't believe there are too many problem horses out there. I do believe there are a lot of people who have made problem horses, though. Then there is the horse that is totally wrong for me, but right for you and vice versa. So the key here is not trying to find a good horse, but rather, trying to find a horse that is "good for you".

In every relationship, there are always followers and leaders. In the relationship between you and your "perfect" horse, you should be able to establish this quite easily. Therefore, if you are a soft-spoken person who is easily intimidated, you might like a quiet horse that doesn't show much aggression. However, if you are a firm type of person with a deep and demanding voice, you might find this same horse fears you. You will need one that is a little more independent and can hold his own.

The other really, really important thing, (in my opinion) is: the knowledge of the rider should be equaled with the knowledge of the horse.

If you don't know a lot about horses, how do you expect to teach your horse anything? Perhaps a well-broke horse might teach you something instead. Then you can buy that cute foal that you have always wanted.

It is very important that you have an understanding of the proper feed, behavioural antics, etc., before you try and raise one. Remember, the best horses are "trained" and not "broke".

What is "broke"? When I think of this word, I think of a horse that has been rushed into submission. In the course of one week or less, they are forced to accept a bridle, bit, saddle pad, blanket and weight on their back.

As if this stress is not enough, now they have their head yanked around from side to side, their mouth yanked upon so hard that they can't take a step forward and this means right, left and stop. The horse is doing all of these things because it has to, and not because he understands why he is doing it.

If the seller tells you, "he is trained, but he has a hard time stopping", I want you to stop and think about that. If I told you "my dog is house broke, he just pees on the floor", would you consider him house broke?

When I think about a trained horse, I think about a horse that someone has spent many hours with enforcing trust, security and patience. If I am out on a trail, I want to be with a horse that I have a relationship with -- not one that resents me for forcing to do things he doesn't want to do (or, doesn't understand).

This horse may cost a little more, but it's coming from a home where the people have an understanding of what a horse needs, and what we, as riders, need. It's worth the extra cost!

Next week: Part two -- What kind of questions should you be asking?

Advisory Board lauded by Minister

Provincial Natural Resources Minister Chris Hodgson has commended the valuable advice given by the Fish and Wildlife Advisory Board by re-appointing all 11 members and expanding their priorities.

"Board chair Phil Morlock and other members have worked hard and are very effective," says Hodgson. "The Board provides solid, thought-provoking advice on how best to spend dollars on fish and wildlife."

The 11 board members are: Phil Morlock of Whitney; Charles Alexander of Dryden; Gary Ball of Peterborough; Walt Crawford of Elora; Sandy Dickson of Atikokan; Brian Dykstra of Marten River; Sandy Johnson of London; Pat Kennedy of Haliburton; Jack Newton of Huntsville; George Purvis of Gore Bay; and Duncan Sinclair of Aylmer.

Last year, the provincial government created a special account for fish and wildlife revenues. The special account—which is set in law—ensures that all fishing and hunting revenues go back into fish and wildlife programs.

The Board was created to provide advice on how to best spend the revenue dollars. Board recommendations have included: More funding for enforcement of conservation laws; revitalizing the Community Fisheries Involvement Program (CFIP) and the Community Wildlife Involvement Program (CWIP) with a record $1 million in funding; and expansion of recreational fishing for lake trout on 48 Ontario lakes.

This year, Hodgson has asked the Board to provide advice on potential revenue sources.

"The Fish and Wildlife Advisory Board is a good example of how this government is keeping its promise to restore public involvement and financial accountability in government."

Blue Rodeo heats up Sunday during Havelock Jamboree

A band that sustains a career spanning five albums learns about the nature of relationships, and the weights and stress those connections can bear.

They understand that even more than friends and lovers, the band becomes your family. After countless nights spent both in front of cheering fans and down long sleepless highways, camaraderie becomes a bulwark against the world, a place of musical respite where the psyche can be free to roam and create.

On Nowhere To Here. Blue Rodeo explores emotional landscapes in all their joy, wonder and disillusionment. Best known for their unique synthesis of country, rock and folk, the band actually transcends such easy categorizations.

Their new batch of songs ranges from ethereal moodiness (Save Myself), to R&B tinged country (Better Off As We Are), from the Abbey Road-styled epics (Brown Eyed Dog), to sparse hymnal sketches (Flaming Bed).

Though their sunny songs still captivate, it's the darker songs, with their longing and space, that make a lasting impression.

"There are emotional seasons," says Greg Keelor, one half of the band's songwriting team.

"The last album, Five Days In July, was very bright. Then we spent two years on the road, and our relationships and our lives were changing. Music is always a catharsis for me and I've found that it takes a certain amount of strength to go into the valley of the shadow. The song becomes a ladder that allows you a descent in and a way out as well. Sometimes you've got to dig a tunnel."

The dark beauty that infuses Nowhere to Here is part of what ties Blue Rodeo together as players and people.

"It's a place that we always exist in as writers and musicians," says co-songwriter Jim Cuddy, adding, "You get in touch with that well of pain. In everybody's psyche there's a certain reservoir of sad memories. The aural traditions of poetry have always created a landscape where there's a lot of isolation and anxiety, all contrasted against something that helps you survive."

Like all the great ensembles, from The Band to The Meters to The Stones, Blue Rodeo possesses the passion of living. With Keelor and Cuddy handling the vocals and guitars, drummer Glenn Milchem, keyboardist James Gray, steel guitarist Kim Deschamps and bassist Basil Donovan make their music flow like surges in a river.

The band handles powerful, majestic passages with skill and tosses off driving grooves with ease.

"In the past three years we've actually learned how to communicate," says Keelor. "When writing for this record, I realized how good the band is. We have a certain weight and gravity. We trust each other as players and that allows us to have space in the music. And it was good to write some songs that were more spacious and sculptured, rather than jingle, jangle, jingle."

Blue Rodeo began out of Keelor and Cuddy's high school friendship. After a brief New York stint in the mid-80's, the pair returned to Canada and eventually recorded their Blue Rodeo debut Outskirts, Diamond

Mine, Casino and Lost Together followed to much acclaim, both at home and abroad.

From Rolling Stone to Musician to Kentucky's Courier Journal, the reviews have been universally outstanding. Although the US market has been slow to catch their fire, Blue Rodeo continues to make splendid music.

They can be heard at the Havelock Country Jamboree on Aug. 17 between 4:30 p.m. - 6 p.m. For ticket information call 1-800-339-3353 or locally at 778-3353.

Madoc Nursery School looking to expand hours

The Madoc Nursery School which has run its program out of the United Church basement for the past several years is looking to expand to accommodate a before and after school child care, full day care, and a morning and afternoon enriched nursery school program.

The board is currently awaiting Ministry approval for the building located at 117 Durham Street, with access from the back of the property to go directly across the road to the Madoc Public School. The building currently occupies the Book Worm, a summer home for a fundraiser for the Madoc Public Library. If the community shows a favorable response to the nursery school's proposed programs the board is hoping to have this project up and running for the first week in September. If you are interest in enrolling your child/children in any of the above mentioned programs, please contact Debra Bailey at 473-1121 or Bonnie Crawford at (613) 472-6208.

ogy at the World Wildlife Fund.

Domtar disputes these findings and states that the application of Dombind improves road safety and preserves the health of livestock and reduces crop damage.

"Dombind is a completely biodegradable product. Regular testing shows that it contains less heavy metal, dioxins and other contaminants than naturally occurring soil," said Robert Rowbottom, director of environment and technical matters for Domtar's packaging division. "The dioxins found in Dombind come from recycled fiber which has picked it up through contact with the ambient environment, mostly from dust in the air."

"Our customized application programs and on-site applications ensure the safe use and handling of this product," Rowbottom said. "Our application guidelines and training at the township level are part of our commitment to using Dombind in an environmentally sound manner."

Recycling plant now handling hazardous waste

The Centre and South Hastings Recycling Board is set to initiate a new program that will allow small businesses, industry and institutions the opportunity to dispose of potentially hazardous materials in a safe and economical manner.

Hazardous Waste Coordinator Jeanne Vilneff says "we have been working with the Ministry of Environment and Energy on this for several years.

"We receive calls from the commercial and industrial sector all the time but until now our Certificate of Approval did not permit us to handle their toxic wastes. We weren't satisfied with telling them that we couldn't help them and not knowing whether the waste was disposed of in an environmentally sound manner. Finally, we can help these people with limited quantities of hazardous waste."

Through a pre-arranged schedule, the "pilot project" permits businesses, institutions and industries to deliver up to 50 gallons or 50 kg of waste at any one time to the hazardous waste depot in Belleville.

Alternatively, the Board can provide a pickup service. Both options are available at reasonable rates, and without the usual permits.

Province releases preliminary provincial police cost estimates

The provincial government has released preliminary cost estimates for policing by the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) for 1998.

The report released by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs states that OPP service in Hastings County will cost an average of $250 a household. The average cost estimate figure is similar to the same figures in neighboring counties including Northumberland and Lennox and Addington, but not Prince Edward County, which has a lower average cost.

The report also provided cost estimates for individual municipalities. In Madoc Village the cost estimate is $155,788 for 623 households. The cost estimate figure for Madoc Township is $193,797 for 775 households. In Huntingdon Township, which is amalgamating with the village, the cost estimate is $290,320 for 1,161 households.

Selected LCBO stores to open Sundays in August

As a shopping convenience to consumers are reminded, that 300 LCBO stores across Ontario, including Madoc's outlet, will be open this Sunday, Aug. 17 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The stores will also be open during these hours on the following two Sundays, Aug. 24 and 31.

These additional days of service are part of a pilot project designed to gauge consumer and public reaction to having selected LCBO and beer stores open on five Sundays in August. The pilot project was announced by Ontario Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations David Tsubouchi, on July 11, 1997.

The Sunday openings

also include approximately 200 selected beer stores, and LCBO agency outlets that choose to open. As usual, Ontario winery retail stores and on-site brewery and distillery stores are open on Sundays.

LCBO stores that are open on Sundays in August have posted signs to notify customers. Where the LCBO store is not open, signs will direct shoppers to the nearest LCBO store that is open.

Customers should contact their local LCBO store or LCBO agency outlet, or call the toll free LCBO Infoline at 1-800-ONT-LCBO (1-800-668-5226) for information on individual store openings.

OPP make drug seizure in Huntingdon Township

Madoc OPP received information about marijuana being cultivated on a property located in Huntingdon Township.

Provincial police attended the scene and seized approximately 30 mature cultivated marijuana plants. Police estimate the street value of the narcotics to be $5,500. No charges were laid in this investigation.

Obituaries

Shirley Lloyd

Shirley Jane Lloyd of Cloyne passed away at the Pine Meadow Nursing Home in Northbrook on Saturday, Aug. 9, 1997 after a lengthy, courageous struggle with cancer. She was in her 69th year.

Shirley was the loved daughter of the late Thomas Enns Fleming and Edna Belle Belford of Ivanhoe, Ontario and the beloved wife of the late Oliver M. Blancy and the late Lorne Lloyd. Dear sister of George Fleming and his wife Judith and of John Fleming and his wife Jean, both of Ivanhoe, she also survived by several nieces and nephews, step-children and step-grandchildren.

Shirley graduated as a registered nurse from Peterborough Civic Hospital in 1950 and went on to duties in New Orleans, Vancouver and finally the Belleville General Hospital, in a supervisory role. She was a kind, compassionate professional and in her later years she was involved in palliative care and worked with the Victorian Order of Nurses. She was involved in the conception and organization of the Northern Emergency Organization in Cloyne. Her membership in the Land O'Lakes Glee Club provided her with great job and companionship.

Her mischievous sparkle and delightful sense of humor remained even through the most trying times and gave strength to all who were privileged to know her and share in her life. Shirley will be deeply missed and her memory cherished by family and dear friends.

Cremation has taken place. A private memorial service was held at the Pine Meadow Nursing Home on Friday, Aug. 15, 1997.

If desired, as expressions of sympathy, donations to the Pine Meadow Nursing Home, Box 100, Northbrook, Ontario, K0H 2G0 would be appreciated by the family.

Leach says municipal tax cuts achievable

Municipalities will be able to cut taxes, says Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Al Leach following the release of estimated changes in municipal costs and revenues that would result from the government's Who Does What initiative.

He said the numbers show municipalities will be able to manage the new alignment of municipal and provincial responsibilities announced May 1st. The new alignment, based on a proposal from the Association of Municipalities of Ontario, is intended to bring education costs under control, and provide better services at lower cost to taxpayers.

"By finding new efficiency savings of about two cents on the dollar per year over the next three years, municipalities will be able to lower their residential property taxes by the year 2000," said Leach. "Across the province, property tax cuts should average five to 10 percent."

"Every level of government, every business, every taxpayer in Ontario has a responsibility to manage within his or her means," Leach said. "The province is cutting internal administrative costs by a third, eliminating the deficit and delivering a tax cut, while absorbing reductions in federal transfer payments. Municipalities should set their own tax cut targets, and we've given them the tools to help them do it."

Since the greater Toronto Area is really a single catchment area for social and health services, adds Leach, those costs—along with GO Transit costs—will be equalized across the entire GTA.

The government says it is also implementing a new assessment system that will make property taxes fairer, more accountable, more consistent and more understandable for taxpayers. Preliminary data to help municipalities plan for the new system were recently released.

Also released were cost estimates that are part of the process to bring fairness to police financing in Ontario. Currently 576 municipalities receive local policing services from the OPP at no direct cost to their municipal taxpayers while 202 municipalities pay for the same services. OPP costing estimates are based on a standard formula that takes into account the actual cost of delivering police services in each municipality.

The release of this costing information is a first step towards enabling every municipality in Ontario to decide how best to provide police services to its residents. Local governments will make decisions about local services, while the provincial government will ensure province-wide standards of policing and community safety.

Restructuring Fund

To help municipalities make the transition to their new roles under Who Does What, the government will spend $800 million over three years through the Municipal Capital and Operating Restructuring Fund to support municipal restructuring. As well, the government will establish a permanent $500-million-a-year Community Reinvestment Fund and provide $70 million a year in additional transition assistance for municipalities with special needs.

Two teams of municipal representatives are advising the government on implementation issues.

The Social and Community Health Services Implementation Team and the Provincial-Municipal Implementation Team will look at how responsibilities should be transferred, how new municipal costs should be allocated, and on what basis the Community Reinvestment Funds should be distributed. As the teams' recommendations come in and the government makes decisions on them, municipalities should be in a much better position to budget for 1998.

"The Community Reinvestment Funds, the new flexibility municipalities will have to deliver services cost-effectively and the $2.5 billion in tax room they will have when we cut residential property taxes for education in half should put them in an excellent position to cut property taxes," says Leach.

Kelly Miller Circus Comes To Town

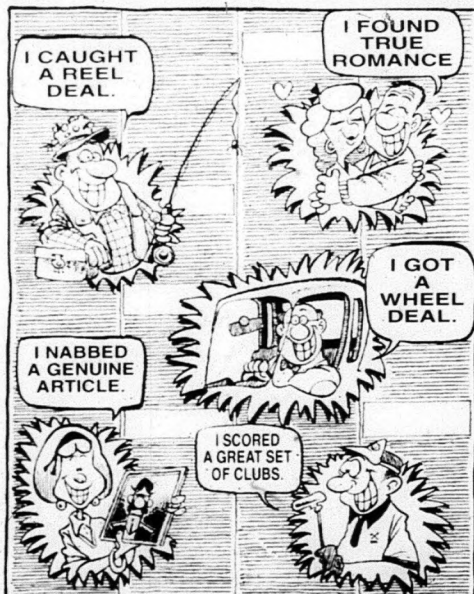

Above: The clown chef had great difficulty keeping the chickens in the poses he tried to prepare a culinary dish. Pepe performed quite a balancing act as he scaled up and down the ladder. Paloma juggled torches as she was suspended in midair. The Perez Brothers performed death-defying feats on the high wire, while Miss Cindy had her horses perform many interesting tricks. The circus held two shows, one in the afternoon and another in the evening.

Expansion Project--With the building framework of the major expansion project serving as a background, Marie Forgrave of the Hoard's Station sales Barn patiently awaits the Grand Opening Sept. 27th. photo/ Rolly Ethier.

Huge expansion will turn Hoard's Station Sales Barn into modernized facility

By Rolly Ethier

Hoard's Station--One quick look at the massive framework rising at the Hoard's Station Sales Barn these days confirms that the historic building is undergoing a major transformation.

The new section currently under construction measures 114 by 175 feet that will include new loading docks and will expand the total area under roof to 20,634 square feet.

"We're extremely proud that we'll have much-improved facilities for our customers in the future," says Marie Forgrave, who has been involved with the operation of the Sales Barn for 26 years and is currently secretary-treasurer of the board.

Other key figures in this unique operation include Dave Denure, who is president, and his wife Kim Denure, who is operations manager. Marie calls Kim a "chief cook and bottle washer" in deference to her abilities to do so many things so well.

"A lot of people ask what I do the rest of the week because the Sales Barn operates just one day, each Tuesday, as far as the public is concerned," says Kim. "This is more than a one-day operation I can assure you. I'm here seven days a week trying to put it all together."

Other members of the busy office staff include Cathy St. Jean, Patty Foote, Joan Billen and Amy Denure.

The objective of the ownership expansion plan is to provide their customers with access to individual pens inside and to have all the animals in more comfortable quarters under roof, says Denure. The big renovation project will enable them to achieve that goal.

The facility will include high docks, low docks and loading docks. The building is raised for superior ventilation for the animals.

With a new computer system recently added in the sales office, Mrs. Forgrave believes the Sales Barn is definitely ready for the 20th century. A customized software program was developed specifically for their purpose to process sales. It is a valuable asset as an average of upwards of 500 sales are finalized each Tuesday.

Making the sales barn experience a memorable one each Tuesday is the great food still available at the lunch counter. The kitchen is staffed by various church and Women's Institute organizations. Those mouth-watering pies have always been a big hit with the hungry farmers.

All in all, including part-time workers, the Sales Barn employs a staff of about 20 to handle the traffic during those hectic Tuesdays.

The construction company is about three weeks away from completion. Workers are scheduled to start installing the steel work next week.

Hoard's Station Sales Barn is regarded as a landmark on Concession Road 85. It opened modestly in 1949 in the main barn of a farm located at that site.

Marie's father, Delbert Hickson, bought the place in 1959 before Marie and her brother, Carl Hickson, kept it in the family with a joint purchase in 1971. Dave Denure came on board five

May family holding reunion

Close to 100 May family descendants will celebrate their first-ever reunion at the Marmora fairgrounds on Aug. 23.

In the 1920's, Daniel and Laura May farmed on the East side of the North Cordova Road, approximately 3.5 miles north of Cordova. The property is still owned by members of the May family.

Relatives are expected from as far away as Chapleau, Ont., Fredericton, New Brunswick, and Long Island, New York, for a family picnic, volleyball and softball games. Later, dinner will be served at the Marmora Lions Club, followed by entertainment and dancing.

Family members who presently live in the

Cordova area include Iva May, Ron May, David Catafo and Marilyn MacLeod, all of RR1 Havelock, and Mavis Heron, of Belmont Lake.

Operation "spot pot"

The Peterborough-Northerumberland Crime Stoppers are seeking the help of the public in locating marijuana crops in the area.

The outdoor cultivation of marijuana throughout the region has been a thorn in the side of law enforcement. Marijuana is grown in fields alongside other legitimate crops. This is often done without the knowledge or consent of land owners. Marijuana crops are also grown in wood lots.

Crime Stoppers' officials say when you "spot some pot" make note of the location and call them. As a caller you will never have to give your name or testify in court. If your information leads to an arrest you may be eligible for a cash reward.

Crime Stoppers can be reached at 745-9000 or toll free at 1-800-222-TIPS. Crime Stoppers does not subscribe to call display.

8th Marmora marathon great success

by Lorrie Tannahill

With a combination of great weather, beautiful horses, enthusiastic people and superb food, how can you go wrong? The Ontario Competitive Trail Riders Association (OCTRA) held their 8th ride on Aug. 7 & 8.

We started just north of Marmora, beginning from Russell Coen's property, and crossed over the trails of many different landowners. We would like to express our sincere appreciation to these people, without their permission and kindness, our ride would be impossible.

It was also nice to see the interest and participation from so many local people. Some came out to see the horses; others watched from points on the trail, and several entered the ride itself.

The local winners were as follows:

*two day/60-mile - third in the lightweight division was Karen Keller, of Ivanhoe, on Gray Wonder; second in the heavy weight division was Helen McMaster, of Springbrook, on Galawnee Member.

*one day/30 mile - fourth in the lightweight division was Dawn McMaster, on Carbon L. Passo; sixth in the lightweight division was Roxanna Mollohan, on Kourcar.

*Novice one day/23 mile - first was Christine LaRose, from Bonarlaw, on Dakota; second was Elaine Steele, of Mountain Grove, on Fleet; third was Lori-Ann McGarvey, of Madoc, on Mickey's Reward; fourth was Bob Burgess, of Madoc, on Dynamite Dan; fifth was Alyce Gorter, of Madoc, on AA Aeridel. (Note: Weight divisions are a combination of the rider and tack to be used. The weights of all the riders are then divided into three categories: light, medium, heavy).

The Marmora ride has always been considered one of the toughest. The finishers should all be commended for their dedication and teamwork which is required in order to not only finish the ride, but also pass the final inspection, which includes a combination of heart rate, lameness, fatigue, soreness, eagerness to continue, etc.

Even though the heat of the day made it hard to continue sometimes, I am sure it was the smell of the beef and pork cooking on the BBQ that led the riders home.

We would like to thank all the businesses who supported the ride with their generous donations. The efforts of the riders were rewarded with everything from halters to grain to shampoo to wine.

On a sadder note, Donna Spencer has chosen to resign her position as Ride Manager effective immediately.

Donna has taken on the responsibility of this event for the past eight years, and has managed to bring smiles to the worst situations, a positive attitude when we had nothing but rain, and encouragement, as well as enthusiasm, to every new rider who had the opportunity to meet her.

At this point, the 1997 ride will conclude what has become known as the "Marmora Marathon". Thanks to Donna for all she has done.

Marmora Houseleague champs... Members of the Marmora Bears were all smiles when they were declared this year's Houseleague champions. The season is over for a year, but these players will always remember 1997 as being the year they were number one!

Horticultural members treated to edible flower demonstration

By Madeline Simpson

The Aug. 5th meeting of Campbellford and District Horticultural Society took the form of a garden party at the home of John and Audrey Ottewill, near Warkworth.

Approximately 40 people strolled through the picturesque gardens with their abundance of colourful blooms. Varieties of perennials, such as rudbeckia, blended their gold with the reds, pinks, purples, blues and pink of monarda, Japanese anemones, sweet peas, hosta sea holly, day lilies, phlox and many others.

Along the walls and fences large pots and containers displayed marigolds, geraniums, verbena and many different annuals.

An arched gateway festooned with yellow clematis led into the front yard where guests admired the lily pond habitat for Japanese carp and frogs, as well as water plants - iris, cat-tails, pond lilies, etc.

Varieties of sedum flourished in the gravel overlay while shrubs and ornamental trees bounded the periphery of the yard.

It was in this area that guests set up their folding chairs for the meeting, which began with greetings from president and hostess, Audrey Ottewill. She also welcomed special guests, Mel Loundes and his wife from Norwood Horticultural Society, and Heather Hawkes from the Stirling Horticultural Society.

Speaker for the evening was Lois Bennett, taking as her theme, "Edible Flowers." With wit and humour, she described and demonstrated that with imagination, edible flowers could be used to embellish a meal. A book she recommended, containing lists of edible flowers, recipes and pictures, is called "Flowers in the Kitchen" by Susan Belsinger.

Some precautions are necessary when choosing flowers for food. (a) Be certain they are edible; (b) Never pick from a sprayed area. (Your own garden is best known); (c) Gently wash all blooms; (d) Place on paper towels to soak up moisture; (e) Keep fresh in a damp paper towel in the refrigerator until needed.

A number of volunteers had prepared flower food for lunch. Lois then demonstrated how these delectable dishes could be made with edible flowers, showing samples of the same.

Lettuce Salad - decorated with nasturtium blooms, which gives the salad a unique flavour.

Salsa - which is tomato-based, takes on a special flavour when mixed with the tiny bloom of thyme, oregano, or basil. Serve with tortilla chips.

Cheese Slices - decorated with Johnny-jump-ups stuck on with a dab of cheese whiz.

Nasturtiums - filled with flavoured cream cheese (a cake decorator makes the task easy). Serve on a bed of lettuce as a colourful dish.

Devilled Eggs - decorated with flowers of viola or borage. (While Lois was demonstrating how to prepare a sample of the above foods, she had some assistant cooks in the background finishing trays of food for the lunch to follow).

Cookies - red petals of monarda, blended with the sugar and shortening of the cookie batter showed as red specks in the baked cookie. Anise hyssop gives the cookies a licorice flavour. Purple flowered hyssop is best. Use only the tiny petals of the herb flowers.

Cakes and Cherry Chip Cake was iced and then decorated with crystallized flowers. To crystallize, use one egg white, mixed slightly with three drops of water. Use a small paintbrush to cover all parts of the flower. Then sprinkle all with sugar. Place on parchment or wax paper and harden at low temperature. (150-200 degrees F in the oven. Store in air-tight container.

A Light Cake, with petals, red monarda scented geranium blended with sugar, shortening into the cake and later iced and decorated with same petals made conversation piece.

A Shortcake with a small amount of lavender petals (bold flavour) batter. Cover the cake with Cool Whip and sprig with lavender petals.

Punch: Add boragals to float on top of favourite punch. Doris Bennett used pineapple and orange juice and ginger ale.

Elderberry C - Made from berry flowers was cooked by Lois and Bennett, with ginger added to the recipe, it is to be a hit.

Other edible flowers mentioned are pansies, calendula (add to fin batter), hemerocallis (lilies), buds (stir-fry), fl (remove centre stamens), stuff with cream cheese, lemon balm, spear melon flowers and (used like day lilies), restaurants today special in flower foods.

By this time, taste were ready for sample judging by the small naps of food left over an enjoyable exercise. The stuffed nasturtium blooms were a big attraction.

Glenn Bennett conducted a draw for surprise. Audrey Ottewill was sent with a thank you for offering her garden location for the party.

Audrey, in turn, sent Glenn and Lois a lovely cake, shaped like a straw hat decorated with beautiful sugar flowers all their work.

As dusk fell, guests parted with thanks for a lightful and relaxing evening.

Next general meeting - Sept. 1st at the Hort. Centre.

Police Committee notes...

Singer offers to help out

Norwood - Popular local singer Sherry Lou Flint has offered her services to the Norwood Asphodel Community Police Committee.

The busy singer has approached the NACP saying she would enjoy helping them with fundraising efforts to raise money for two highway signs listing the fines for traffic violations.

It is estimated that the signs could cost $2,000.

"We may be able to put something together," NACP Chair Terry Low said.

Norwood bantams rally but lose ORSA thriller in extra time

Rockwood needs extra innings to win

Rockwood - After watching a big lead evaporate, the Rockwood bantams needed extra innings to edge Norwood J.J. Stewart bantams 11-10 in ORSA series action.

With two, one-run wins in the books, Rockwood was able to advance in ORSA play.

Norwood travelled to Rockwood and gave it all they had in the nine-inning contest.

Despite out-hitting the home team 20-9 and outplaying them with a tremendous performance by pitcher Mark Chaplin, it was a few bad breaks in the second inning and the bottom of the seventh that hurt Norwood's chances.

Norwood got off to the start they wanted building up an early 2-0 lead when Jeff Bidgood and Wes Oliver slapped out singles. Rikki Smeltzer followed up with a triple to drive in the two runs.

In the second, pitcher Smeltzer struggled on the mound walking a couple of Rockwood batters as well as hitting two. By the time the inning ended Norwood trailed 7-2.

Chaplin took over the pitching duties in the third years ago. Over the years many smaller building expansions have been added when required. A dairy department was added a few years ago when hog sales nosedived and allowed for the extra space with fewer pigs being sold.

Denure and other sales barn personnel are justifiably proud of the expansion project which will turn the Sales Barn into a first-class facility ready to accommodate more animals and provide greater efficiency from the showroom to the bookkeeping phase of activities.

Officials have set Saturday, Sept. 27th as the grand opening of the newly-renovated building. A customer appreciation dance, featuring Country Pride, and an old-fashioned beef barbecue will be held starting at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Food bank demand levels off

constant was the supply of breakfast cereal. We have always been able to give out several boxes and most of the time there has been a good selection from which to choose.

But that is oddly changing now as we are running rather low on cereal supplies. And although we will still be able to give out cereal, there will not be too much choice unless we can come up with a large donation from a corporate sponsor.

We are working on that though.

During August the Food Bank will be open twice -- once on Aug. 14 and again on Aug. 28. Those using the service are again reminded to bring their identification card. This shows that you are registered and allows the people on duty to serve you. Please bring your card on every visit.

The "Collective Kitchen," which has been running with great success for several months, will again be operating in September. The next planning meeting will be held on Monday, Sept. 15 (9:15 am) at the Norwood Town Hall.

To be part of the Collective Kitchen you must attend the planning meeting. If you need more information or have questions about the Collective Kitchen call the Health Unit in Peterborough and ask for Mary Jo.

Requests for assistance at the Food Bank seem to have levelled off. In July we processed 53 requests for assistance which is considerably down from the peak months of March and April. However, families registered to use the Food Bank have increased and there are now 164 registered families. The good news is that only 34 of the registered families used the Food Bank in July and only four families used our services every day that we were open -- three times in July.

Rain!!! Will we ever get any this summer? Water supplies are low, wells are starting to suffer and gardens are looking very dry. And the waterfall at the mill pond is just about completely gone. But there is still a considerable amount of crops starting to come in and that is great news for everyone: there is really nothing to beat fresh Ontario tomatoes, new cucumbers and those lovely green apples.

Despite the lack of rain, the chief cook at our house has managed a few bottles of preserves and the cucumbers are starting to come at a respectable pace. How about your garden? Do you have produce to spare? We at the Food Bank will see that any garden produce that you donated will get to some very worthwhile tables and will not be wasted. Excess food can be dropped off at the Town Hall on Thursday, Aug. 28 as close to 10 am as possible.

And be assured, your fresh produce is really appreciated. The Norwood and District Ministerial Food Bank continues to quietly serve families in this area who need a bit of assistance. The committee that sees the operation is headed by Reverend Roger M. who is the chairman.

The Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match enters its 8th successful year, as it continues to grow by leaps and bounds.

The Show, billed as Eastern Ontario's largest annual Farm Show, that is "produced for farmers, by farmers" will run over two days, Aug. 20 (9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.) and Aug. 21 (9 a.m. - 4 p.m.).

This year's event will be hosted by Jameshill Farms owned by Jim and Louise Sandercock and family of RR 5 Trenton.

Demonstrations, an original idea of the Hastings County event, has proven to be one of the most popular events. This year the feature will be conservation tillage equipment, as well as no-till drills and planters.

The Innovations section, which was introduced a few years ago, looks for inventions, whether you are manufacturing your own equipment, or maybe modified or invented a piece of equipment, the Farm Show is interested in seeing it. Nothing is too small. This year prize money will be awarded as follows: 1st - $100, 2nd - $50, 3rd - $25.

The Family Tent will once again provide continuous entertainment, demonstration and information on cooking, gardening and fashion as well as musical entertainment.

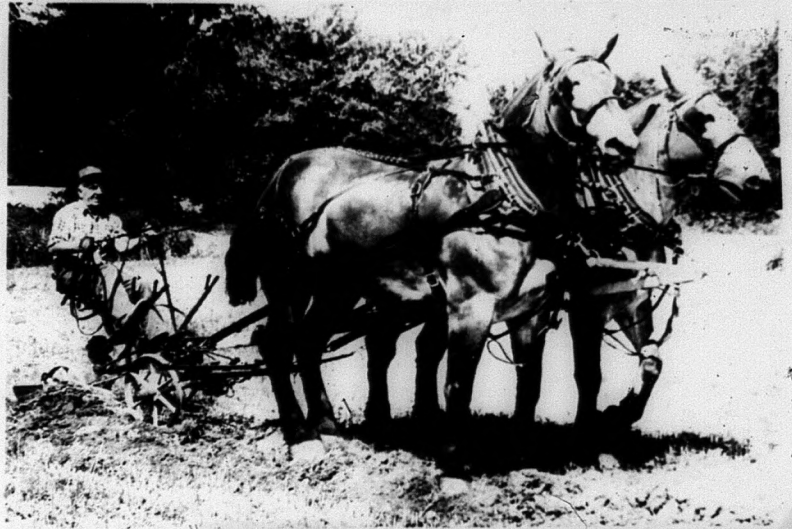

In the Craft section, Chair Helen Thompson said that 12 crafters will be set up inside the tent, while at least 10 will be set up outside. A wide variety of crafts including, homemade teddy bears, textiles, pottery, homemade jams. Thompson described it as a showcase of talent of the crafters in the area.

The Children's Tent returns again this year, which will offer craft making, provide toys and toy machinery. There is also a change facility available. As well, the Stirling Festival Theatre's Young Company will be performing Jenny and the Jabberwock.

The Queen of the Furrow contest returns this year with three contestants. This year's contestants include, Karen Bush of RR 5 Trenton, Jennifer Thompson of RR 1 Stirling and Jessica Schaitmann of RR 3 Frankford. The 1997 Queen Andrea Donnan of Stirling will represent Hastings at the International Plowing Match.

In the area of Horse Plowing, Chair Harold Buckley stated that 15 teams competed each day in last year's match. He added that there is good prize money available in a number of different categories.

The categories include best dressed team, best plowing team, oldest plowperson, etc.

Antique Plowing Chair Allan Lott said that the antique tractor plowing events are a highlight of the plowing match. Participants represent Eastern and Western Ontario as well as the local area. He added that he is hoping for more participation.

1997 HASTINGS COUNTY PLOWING MATCH

Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match has website

The Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match has a brand new site on the Internet.

First entering cyberspace last year, the show had many favorable comments from all over the country. This year's website is new and improved.

It loads much quicker with brand new graphics and layout.

New information is included this year about Hastings County, accommodations in the area, and the host farm. There is even a radar weather map of the area, so conditions can be checked at any time. A contact list of all committee chairmen is also posted so that anyone interested in a certain event can contact them directly.

Any developments will also be posted as needed so the page should be checked regularly.

The address for The Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match is www.reach.net-haggerty

Bruce Hunt from Moira demonstrated his 1952 John Deere during the recent Media Day event. Hunt said he has owned up to 10 antique tractors. He said he just has a bull competing in the antique plowing events. Hunt said he began plowing when he was 10 years old.

Bonisteel to open County Farm Show & Plowing Match

The Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match announced that Roy Bonisteel will officially open this year's show. As former host of CBC's Man Alive program, Bonisteel, is a well-known personality throughout Canada and around the world. The committee is pleased to have him participate in the festivities since he is also a local resident living very near the site of this year's Match. Still involved in broadcasting, as well as lecturing and other endeavors, Mr. Bonisteel is expected to deliver a very interesting address to the opening day crowd.

The opening ceremonies will take place the first day of The Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match, Wednesday, Aug. 20 at 12 noon.

The show is being held on the farm of Jim and Louise Sandercock, near Trenton, Ontario, Aug. 20 and 21.

Walkers look for support

Norwood - Norwood Community Care's big walkathon is all set to go Aug. 23 and organizers are encouraging local residents to support participants by offering a pledge.

This is the second year that the organization has held the summer fund-raiser and they hope to match last year's success.

Things start at the Pine Street Centre at 8:30 am with the walkers proceeding down Spring Street to Victoria and then out along Highway 45. They will head west along the Centre Line to the 8th Line where they will complete their stroll at Lakeways.

Transportation will be provided from Lakeways back to the Pine Street Centre where refreshments will be served.

If you are interested in making a pledge or want to join the walk give Community Care Norwood a call.

Lassie girls have excellent tourney

Norwood - The Norwood Lassie girls finished up their season with an excellent tournament performance in Ivanhoe July 27. The squad had a good outing winning a pair of games and dropping another.

Pitching for Norwood in the opener was Stefanie Hunt and Kim Rutherford who helped the team beat the Norwood Atoms 18-12.

Leading the way for the Lassies was Dalia Jabr with three hits including a home run, a triple and single. Hunt also had a home run and a single while April Nelson had a pair of singles. Elke Nidderly rapped out a double with singles going to Kari Patterson, Andrea Walker, Stephanie Mather and Rutherford.

In the second match, Norwood came up against

ORSA thriller

and Norwood gradually scored runs over the next five innings taking a 10-7 lead into the top of the seventh.

Rockwood would then load the bases and a costly error allowed them to tie the score at 10-10.

Nothing happened in the eighth but in the bottom of the ninth, with one out and Norwood runners on sec-

Ivanhoe and went on to a 15-8 win.

Rutherford was on the mound fanning six batters and allowing seven hits. Jabr and third, Rockwood's pitcher made a great catch getting the second out and then picking off Norwood's runner at third to end the inning.

Rockwood led off the ninth with a double and single and scored the game-winning run to take the series.

The match ended with a slight skirmish between the teams which was a spillover from a situation earlier in the inning involving the Rockwood coach.

In the game, Oliver led the way with three singles, a double, two stolen bases and three RBIs while Dave Begg had three singles, a double, stole a base and drove in two runs.

Jason Begg had three singles while Jeff Biggood had a double, single and one stolen base. Kyle McDonald had a single and one RBI. Dave had a single, two doubles and an RBI. Jamie Coad had a double and one RBI while Chaplin rapped out a pair of singles and drove in a run. Jeremy Heffernan added a single.

Tracey Lynn Chappell was stopped behind a line of traffic on the highway when a tractor trailer unit owned by Myers Transport Ltd. struck the rear of her 1986 Chevrolet.

She was taken to Peterborough's Civic Hospital for non-life-threatening injuries.

The driver of the truck, Glenn Barrett, 58, of Trenton was being charged under the Highway Traffic Act.

A Fair Weather Fair in Campbellford!

Visitors at the Holcraft Exhibit held at the Curling Club are the Oosterlaken sisters, 11-year-old Ashley and nine-year-old Brittany.

Winner of the Fair Window Display for the second consecutive year is Campbellford town and jewellers. BIA president Steve Sharpe presents the trophy to Lisa Hoard and Cheryl Kerr of Campbellford Gifts and Jewellers.

With the giant midway dragon hovering overhead, Jeff Wildman (left), Caleb Huxcke and Sandy Robinson appear ready to test out some of the midway rides.

Blair Cochrane of Peterborough, the Queen of the Commercial Horse Division, second-place ribbon on R. Cochrane's Highview Farm entry from Blackstock Summer, the singles carriage class.

High-stepping in typically elegant fashion is this team of horses taking part in carriage division competition of the horse show.

The holstein competition was one of the opening events of the Friday night program at the arena. All photos by Rolly Ethier.

No more provincial funding for public transportation

Campbellford's timing on provincial funding to support public transportation is simply coming up empty.

Although Councillor Trish Baird says the town wasn't permitted to apply for funding before next year, now the provincial government has confirmed the discontinuation of the public transportation subsidy program. Campbellford had hoped to attract some of this funding to purchase a new Venture Van for the disabled and seniors in 1998.

However, Mayor Cathy Redden said the Venture Van campaign has already received a number of promising donations and the Campbellford District Rural Transportation committee plans further fundraising for a replacement vehicle.

Notification of Campbellford's 1997 subsidy public transportation allocation for persons with disabilities shows an operating assistance of $19,751.

In the Ministry of Transportation letter to council, Assistant Deputy Minister Bob Breeze said the ministry announced on Jan. 15th that municipalities will fully fund municipal transit as part of the government's response to the "comprehensive set of recommendations of the "Who Does What" Panel. This action, he notes, will result in simpler, smaller, more accountable and less costly government at both the provincial and municipal levels.

Council has been advised that all operating subsidies and most capital subsidies will be discontinued as of Jan. 1, 1998. Only capital and operating expenditures incurred up to Dec. 31, 1997, will be eligible for subsidy, with one exception.

As announced last January, the ministry will continue to honour outstanding legal commitments to specific capital projects extending beyond 1997, notably the purchase of Orion buses by many Ontario municipalities.

Breeze's letter said that

Minister Al Palladini announced changes in municipal transit capital subsidy policies. These policies will continue to apply to capital expenditures incurred up to Dec. 31, 1997.

"Again, I stress that capital expenditures incurred beyond this date will not be eligible for capital subsidy and will become the responsibility of the municipality," said Breeze.

Believe it when you see it -- Part II

Last week, I left you with a few of my opinions purchasing a horse.

This week I promised to share with you a list of questions you might ask if you are about to buy the horse. (If you remember, the "perfect" horse is one "perfect" for you, and not necessarily "perfect" for one else).

Now, to refer to the title of the column, once you asked certain "key" questions, believe the answer when you see them for yourself.

I am not suggesting that every seller is out for money, and therefore, I would hope they would be with you at least about this part of the sale. Risk child's life for the sake of a dollar is, in my opinion, worst kind of scam around.

However, I have been sold a "child proof" or "proof" horse myself that requires a 200 pound man to handle it. Therefore, ask to see their children on the horse.

Next, ask them to ride the horse and watch what aids are being used, if any. This means using the spurs, the reins, rough or harsh hands, tugging or pulling to turn and stop, etc.

Only then is it your turn to ride. I have also ridden "broke" horses that I am sure have only been saddled a dozen times. Let the seller be the first to go off. If they are reluctant to ride, you might want to think about purchase for a few minutes.

While you are riding, ask everything from the horse you will expect from it when you are home. If you enter any trail classes, try to side pass, back up, changes etc. Don't let the seller intimidate you. You either take the time before you buy it, or spend more trying to sell it. (And once again, the horse is the loss to another home, again.)

When choosing a horse to complement your style, general rule of thumb is: if you can comfortably forward and touch the ears, it is a good size for you. If you can't reach, the horse may be too big, and if you can't go past his ears, and stick your fingers up his nose, he may want to look for a larger one.

Don't forget this is very general. Just because you don't fall to the ground when you get on, doesn't mean they can carry you comfortably. Common sense will play a strong role here. If you aren't sure, take someone who knows about horses.

Next, check the condition of the feet. No feet, no horse. If they are in bad shape, make sure you ask the seller to have the feet up and hold them there for a few moments. Only horse we have with bad feet is an Arab that I prefer to strike us rather than stand.

It could be possible that this horse doesn't like being done either. You may also ask at this point who the farrier is and where he is from. A quick call to him to verify what kind of feet the horse has and possibly, he will be able to give you a few clues about the horse.

If the seller says he does his own work, ask qualifications he has. If you ask any long distance what the importance of a good farrier is, they will tell you my belief that you can't just read a book and start shoeing. The wrong angle can make a good horse lame in time.

Next is vaccinations and worming. If the horse is skinny, don't be afraid to point this out to the seller and why the horse is in this condition.

Some horses are "hard keepers", which means you be looking at more hay, grain, worming, dollars, in to keep the horse looking fit. If a mare has just foaled is a good reason, but only to a point. If the horse is young, its body should be able to replenish itself a couple of months. Maybe not to its fullest, but shouldn't look like they just had the foal either.

Ask what kinds of shots this horse has had. Then make sure you confirm by looking at the receipt from the vet calling the vet if they claim it is lost or they do it. It is illegal for a vet to sell a Rabies vaccine. If you are taking this horse in with other horses, or on trail ride, don't settle for a verbal answer.

If the seller is proud of the way they have kept the horse, and they are asking a good price for it, they will be more than pleased to share their hard copies with you. Provide the name and number of the vet.

I hope this helps you in your search for your "perfect" horse. Please feel free to contact me if you have additional questions. If I can't answer them, I would be pleased to find out for you.

I am looking for a fairly quiet mare between the ages 5-10. Pref. Quarter horse, Arab or cross, with or without foal. Please call me with any details: 1-613-472-5661

Flying Farmers will reward air arrivals with van shuttle

Woodstock--Some farmers will be bringing their way to the new site of Canada's Outdoor Farm Show just outside Woodstock this fall and some will beat higher altitudes than others.

Anyone who decides to fly an airplane to the show will be able to land at the Woodstock Air Park and will be shuttled free of charge to the show site by the Ontario Flying Farmers.

This is the third year that the Ontario Flying Farmers have been providing a van shuttle service for anyone flying to and from Canada's Outdoor Farm Show, scheduled Sept. 9-11.

"We have a great system setup," says Jack Daniel, a member of the Flying Farmers, who will be working at this year's show. "People just call the toll free number at Canada's Outdoor Farm Show when they leave their home airport, indicating their estimated time of arrival and the number of passengers, and we have someone waiting to pick them up when they arrive. When folks are ready to fly home, they just stop into our exhibit at the show and we arrange a ride back to the airport."

The Woodstock Air Park, which is located west of the city on Highway 2 and just five minutes from the show site, is the original home of the Canadian Harvard Aircraft Association (CHAA). "CHAA's home base is now Tillsonburg," says Norm Beckham, Air Show Display co-ordinator for the CHAA, and the airport manager at Woodstock, "but we will have some of the Harvards parked outside on static display for people to see. These aircraft have a long and proud heritage in Canadian aviation, being used as advanced pilot trainers during the Second World War and up to the late 1960s."

Daniel says the Ontario Flying Farmers received its charter in 1963 from the International Flying Farmers organization, which supports 30 chapters all across North America.

"Remember that in some parts of the midwest, the only feasible way for a farmer to oversee some rather expansive farm operations, is by air. That, and the sheer enjoyment of flying, is why Flying Farmers actively promote the safe use of airplanes in the agricultural industry."

If farm help is needed call Employment Centre

By Rita Byvelds

In the past when farmers needed skilled workers for their farm, they called the Farm Labour Pool.

The Labour Pool had a list of people available to help with cropping or people who could do relief milking. With the closing of the Farm Labour Pool officers more than a year ago, farmers were left unsure where to go if they were looking for farm help.

There are currently a couple of options for farmers in our area who are looking for full-time or part-time employees. The Agricultural Employment Centre is a pilot project funded by Human Resources Development Canada. Located in Ottawa, the office covers the geographical area represented by the 613 area code calling area.

Sue Reed, Agricultural Employment Centre manager, has placed part time and full time employees on area farms. She can be reached at (613) 829-5459 1-800-407-8886. The fee to use the Centre varies. For example, the membership fee to the Centre if you are looking for season workers is $65.

The Agricultural Employment Centre is offering a summer special. Work crews of up to four students are available to do barn or house cleaning and yard work.

OPP service in 1996, according to Madoc/Quinte OPP Detachment Commander Bryan Pollard. At a transition board meeting for Stirling-Rawdon, Pollard stated that cost estimates were compiled by taking the total OPP budget for 1996 and looked at time spend in a municipality dealing with Criminal Code offences and traffic issues, with provincial mandated services, like highway traffic patrolling deleted, to come up with a per household cost for each municipality.

County Farm Show & Plowing Match boasts large opening day crowd

by Jeff Wilson

A large crowd attended the opening day (Wednesday) of the 1997 edition of the Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match.

The two-day event was held at Jameshill Farms owned by Jim and Louise Sandercok and family, with assistance from Stan and Nelda Holland of RR 5 Trenton.

The first day featured plowing competition, including the Media Plowing event, won this year by Marmora Herald Editor Nancy Powers, Madoc Review and Stirling News-Argus Editor Jeff Wilson finished second; Mayors and Reeves Plowing competition; Queen of the Furrow Plowing competition; entertainment by the Trenton Barbershop, field demonstrations of conservation tillage and no-till equipment. As well, there was a day-long Family Program.

During the opening ceremonies, Queen of the Furrow Andrea Donnan acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Roy Bonisteel, former host of CBC's Man Alive and area resident, was on hand to officially open the Farm Show and Plowing Match. During his speech, Bonisteel told the audience, he was born on the same road the host farm is located on. He recalled silo filling and threshing on the host farm when he was a boy, along with many people in the area. He described the experience as getting together to celebrate agriculture, similar to the experience of attending the Farm Show and Plowing Match.

He joked about his rather long introduction, which now that he is older is beginning to sound more like his obituary.

Bonisteel fondly recalled going to St. Catharines as a farm broadcaster, which allowed him to attend all the International Plowing Matches, as well as the County matches.

Bonisteel read an excerpt written in 1877, describing Hastings County. The article described Hastings County as rich in agriculture. The land curves around the Bay of Quinte, resembling the Bay of Dublin. The area contained splendid tracts of well tilled land.

In conclusion, he stated he is often asked what is done at plowing matches and what difference does it make whether the furrow is plowed straight or crooked. Bonisteel said that plowing a straight furrow is a metaphor for life, when you do something very careful and straight it shows you are established and accomplished. He then officially declared the 1997 Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match officially open.

Bob Reid of Foxboro and his horse team of Duke and Smokey competed in the Horse Sulkey Plow category at the Hastings County Farm Show and Plowing Match on Wednesday, Aug. 20. The horse classes at the plowing match are a spectator favorite.

Health Unit offers Hepatitis B immunization program

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit offered Hepatitis B vaccine to all high school students in 1996-97 school year. The vaccine was given in a series of three injections, the first dose in October/November 1996, the second dose November/December 1996 and third dose April/May 1997.

This is a Ministry of Health funded vaccine available only in Health Unit clinics. The vaccine was not distributed to physicians. For this year only Hepatitis B vaccine was offered free to all high school students.

Hepatitis B is one of several viral infections that can affect the liver. Although the disease is sometimes very mild and produces no symptoms, it can also be very dangerous. The Hepatitis B virus can permanently damage the liver. It is estimated that 80 per cent of all liver cancers are caused by this virus.

The symptoms of this disease may not develop for six weeks to six months. The average incubation period is usually two-three months. The symptoms of the disease include, nausea, fever, fatigue, dark-colored urine, pain in the upper right abdomen, enlarged liver and jaundice (yellow color of skin and eyes). At least half of the people infected have no symptoms. Diagnosis is made through a blood test.

Up to 10 per cent of people who contract this disease become chronic carriers. This means that they feel healthy, but still have the Hepatitis B virus in their system and are able to pass the virus on to other people. Some people carry this virus for many years and never know they have it. Infants or young children contracting this disease are unlikely to have symptoms, but are at higher risk than adults of becoming chronic carriers.

This virus is spread through exchange of body fluid, e.g. blood, semen, vaginal fluids and occasionally saliva.

Students who have started their series and not completed three doses should plan to attend a Health Unit Immunization Clinic in their area. The schedule of clinics is as follows: Madoc - Health Unit Office, every second Wednesday from 1 - 2:30 p.m.; Stirling - St. Paul's United Church, every second Friday from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m.; Belleville - Health Unit Office, 179 North Park St., Thursdays from 2 - 5 p.m.

Monster muskie caught on Moira Lake

by Jeff Wilson

As far as thrills of a life-time go, this one was right up there for an American fisherman who caught a large muskie on Moira Lake, early last Thursday morning. The fish measured 56 inches in length and weighed in at 37 lbs.

On Aug. 14, Ted Suffolk, 47, of Canfield, Ohio, who was vacationing with his wife and two children at Bailey's Cottages on Moira Lake, was out in his boat trolling with his son Doug, 14, when the line just stopped. At first he thought he was snagged on some rocks, but then he remembered that there were no rocks in the area. The line began shaking so he knew it was a fish. After just 15 minutes he landed the monster muskie in the boat. Suffolk used a Heddon and Vamplure, which had three sets of hooks and was yellow and green in color with stripes. He had 30 lb. test fishing line.

Ted Suffolk shows off his prize muskie that measured 56 inches long and weighed in at 37 lbs.

"I kind of wish Doug had caught it," Suffolk said. "Their rods were set up side by side, as they trolled along in the boat."

Suffolk has vacationed at Bailey's Cottages since 1968. He is an assistant general manager at the Youngstown, Ohio newspaper called The Vindicator.

Suffolk has caught some other large muskies including one 32 lb. and another 28 lb., over the years.

Along with the excitement of catching the big one, the catch also brought the satisfaction that, of his friends who have stayed on the lake, he has the record for the largest fish.

The muskie was so large that it was difficult finding a place to store it. The Two Loons' freezer ended up being the only place able to accommodate the muskie.

Suffolk said he would like to get the prize fish stuffed and mounted, and will look into the cost with a friend who is a taxidermist.

Remember When?

This excerpt was printed in the Thursday, April 19, 1894 issue of the Belleville Intelligencer.

Madoc Hotel Licences

The Municipal Council of the village of Madoc was convened by petition of the ratepayers to consider the bylaw enacted limiting of the number of hotels. The landlords and tenants have given instructions to their solicitor, A. A. MacDonald, to move to quash the bylaw. The Council are considering the propriety of repealing the bylaw, but there is a strong adverse feeling. Next meeting of the Council will decide the matter.

It is contended that the bylaw is defective in many respects and unless repealed will doubtless be tested by the courts.

Meeting of Creditors

The creditors of Thos. Ricketts, general merchant of Gilmour, who assigned to F. W. O'Flynn, of Madoc, some days ago, met in the law office of O'Flynn and Campbell Tuesday afternoon. Messrs. F. E. O'Flynn and Mr. Anderson, of Alexander and Anderson, of Toronto, were appointed inspectors. Mr. Ricketts made an offer of 40 cents on the dollar cash on the unsecured liabilities. The assignee was directed to communicate this offer to the different creditors, and in event of all not accepting it, the assignee and inspectors were directed to go and wind up the estate. Mr. Ricketts' liabilities are: Preferential, $2,700; unsecured, $1,700. Assets, $5,180. Mr. Ricketts claims that the assignment was brought about by the pressure brought to bear upon him by Linton and Co. of Montreal.

Recycling Board introduces new hazardous waste program for businesses

by Marvin Tucker

If you're like most people you probably think that Ontario is an "environmentally-friendly" place to live. If this is the case then you were probably shocked to hear recent media stories, placing our province as the third worst area in North America in terms of pollution creation.

It is unlikely that the provincial government will introduce new legislation reducing pollution from businesses in Ontario.

There is good news however. Through a new program, introduced in August, the Centre and South Hastings Recycling Board is offering local businesses and institutions an opportunity to dispose of hazardous waste in a safe, efficient and economical fashion.

Traditionally, municipal hazardous waste programs have been geared towards households - leaving businesses to their own devices to dispose of hazardous material. While options certainly exist for safe disposal, small and medium sized businesses in particular, find the costs associated with this disposal to be absolutely prohibitive.

Many workplaces may be storing unusable toxic materials for long periods of time, with no affordable options available to them to dispose of it. Even storage can be costly and the potential of leakage is always a concern. In some cases, businesses may even end up discreetly disposing of toxic waste in ways that could cause serious environmental damage.

The Recycling Board is now offering an affordable alternative that will be attractive to local businesses and institutions. Through this new program small quantities (50 gallons maximum per trip to a maximum of 500 gallons per year) of hazardous material can be dropped off at the Board's Hazardous Waste Depot on a pre-arranged basis. Alternatively, Recycling Board staff can arrange to pick the material up at your workplace.

In addition to offering an affordable alternative, the Recycling Board simplifies the process of toxic waste disposal by assuming responsibility for all government approvals that may be necessary. Disposing safely of unwanted hazardous material can help local businesses to avoid fire department and government violations, keep substances, explosives, bio-hazardous or bio-medical wastes and

PCBs.

In some instances, costly disposal of unwanted but still useful material can be avoided by finding a company that can make use of the product. The Recycling Board can help local businesses in this way as well. By partnering with other local initiatives, Recycling staff can help to match up companies that want to dispose of unwanted goods with those that can make use of it - often to the benefit of both groups.

Businesses or institutions interested in finding out more about this new program can contact the Hazardous Waste Co-ordinator for the Recycling Board, Jeanne Vilneff at 395-6266.

OPP to hold grand opening of Eastern Region headquarters

The Ontario Provincial Police want the word to go out that their new Eastern Region headquarters is open for business.

The new Eastern Region headquarters is located in a renovated building on the property of the Rideau Regional Centre in Montague Township, just east of Smiths Falls. The boxes are unpacked and the headquarters is now home to Command Staff and Unit Heads who oversee the work of 16 host detachments and 28 clustered detachments, including Madoc/Quinte, from Belleville to the Quebec border.

C/Supt. Bob Eamer, Eastern Region Commander, responsible for policing services for 1.5 million people in 14 counties covering an area of 61,600 square kilometres, states an official ribbon cutting ceremony will be held on Thursday, Sept. 11, at 11 a.m. He also said that a will be put on by the Tactical Response Unit, the Emergency Response Team, the OPP helicopter, the Canine Unit, Search and Rescue, Traffic and Marine. As well, learn more about the fascinating field of Behavior Sciences, the VICLAS system for tracking criminals, and find out more about the Forensic Identification Unit.

The Community Day begins at 10 a.m. with a parade in the Town of Smiths Falls featuring police and citizen bands, motorcycles and a variety of exciting entrants. Children's games, a dunk tank, and concession stands will complement the day. Donation bins will also be set up in support of local food banks.

Village cracks down on oversized garbage bags

No more containers, just normal-sized garbage bags

By Bill Freeman

Norwood - The Village is cracking down on the use of over-sized garbage bags and containers.

The bags are getting too big and too heavy, says Clerk-Administrator Glenn Girven.

Some, Mr. Girven noted Monday night, would top the scales at 75 pounds in clear violation of the village's comprehensive garbage by-law.

The by-law is clear about what people can use to contain garbage during weekly collection and some residents, council has been told, do not follow the regulations.

The by-law stipulates that a container must be a polyethylene plastic bag approximately 30 inches by 27 inches with a minimum 1.5 gauge thickness.

It mustn't weigh any more than 30 pounds.

Village workers have been faced with containers that clearly flout the by-law.

"Obviously the wrong stuff is going in (containers)," Mr. Girven said.

The crackdown is aimed at promoting recycling and cutting down the cost of garbage, says Reeve Doug Pearcey.

He also noted that the by-law clearly specifies what size garbage bag can be used by residents.

Mr. Pearcey also reminds people that if they require extra bag tags they are available at the municipal office. Mac's Convenience Store and Norwood Home Hardware.

Lang Pioneer Village renews historic link

30th anniversary ceremonies draw appreciative crowd

By Bill Freeman

Lang - There was a splendid sense of déjà vu at Lang Pioneer Village Sunday afternoon.

While it was clearly 1997 (reference to restructuring made sure of that) the clock was turned back 30 years -- to that fine August day when the triumphant effort of volunteers and local politicians came together in the opening of a 25-acre living pioneer museum that started with 12 buildings and now is a growing home to 20.

Sunday's gathering, with legendary Asphodel politician-golfer Carman Metcalfe cutting the "ribbon" once again, marked the historic village's 30th birthday.

It was a celebration of dreams, hard work and some necessary deal-making. It was also an eloquent reminder that local heritage -- social, cultural and economic -- must never be allowed to slip into the mists and be forgotten.

And in today's heady, restructured world there is always that threat, speakers at the event reminded the audience.

Lang Village is an "inspiring example of pioneer life brought to life," Reverend Allan Borland, a retired United Church minister from Norwood told guests.

Rev. Borland grew up near the site and well-remembers the Lang-Grist Mill grinding wheat into flour. During its "hay day" the mill would produce 7500 pounds of ground flour every day with its paddle wheels, fuelled by water from the Indian River, generating 32 horse power.

"You have truly turned back time to a special place," Rev. Borland said as he rededicated the village.

Carman Metcalfe was County Warden when the Pioneer Village officially opened Aug. 19, 1967 and he recalled the work that went into this extraordinary project.

"There were a lot of deals to be made and a lot of people to be convinced," Mr. Metcalfe recalled.

There was a fear that after "Centennial enthusiasm waned" they would not be able to pull off the Lang Pioneer project.

"I am very proud to stand here today," he added.

In 1966, the Otonabee Region Conservation Authority bought the 25 acre site, including the mill, dam and reservoir. The dam was repaired, the reservoir dredged and 500 ft. of sand laid down for a beach along the Indian River. It was to be leased to Peterborough County for 99 years.

Restoration architect B. Napier Simpson Jr. would lay out the master plan for the pioneer community. The prodigious efforts of the organizing committee chaired by Mary Mood, who cut an anniversary cake Sunday, helped bring the dream to fruition.

Lang Pioneer Village was "built to tell the story of Peterborough County," Otonabee Reeve David McIntyre said during his address in 1967.

Mr. McIntyre, remembered by current Otonabee Reeve Dave Nelson, was the Chairman of the County's Village Project.

He made it clear that there would be "no great monuments" at the Village -- "just the simple buildings of simple folks."

The Village is an "instructional memorial to present and future generations," Peterborough MP

Hugh Faulkner said at the time.

"An appreciation of history must start in school with children being instructed in their heritage," Mr. Faulkner said.

Also attending the 1967 ceremony were Peterborough mayor Joseph Behan, Peterborough MPP Keith Brown, Hastings-Frontenac MPP Rod Webb of Norwood, Flex McMillan, Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, Havelock Reeve E.J. Leeson, Peterborough County Warden Carman Metcalfe, Chief Dalton Jacobs of Curve Lake and Chief Ralph Loucks of Hiawatha.

On Sunday, Warden Tom Flynn presented the Village with a letter from the County that will be included in a time capsule.

"It is hard to imagine that the life of 1997 will become pioneer itself," Mr. Flynn said.

Belmont-Methuen Reeve Ron Gerow was on hand to dedicate the multi-purpose room to long-serving curator Margaret Mackelvie, an inspirational and multi-talented woman who was a "driving force" behind Lang Village.

Peterborough MPP Gary Stewart, a seventh generation Otonabee Township native, said he was "extremely proud" of what the Village has come to represent.

It represents every pioneer family that made Peterborough County what it is, Mr. Stewart said.

It is part of the heritage and culture all our families have given to the area, he added.

Mr. Stewart also paid tribute to the staff and volunteers who work hard to make the Village such an important link to the past.

"It is our responsibility as politicians and as people to make sure things are remembered," Otonabee Reeve Dave Nelson said.

Hastings-Peterborough MPP Harry Danford echoed Mr. Nelson saying we must "use the past as a guide to the future."

Mr. Danford presented a certificate from the province that recognized the "spirit and sheer hard work" of settlers as they "struggled to create a life for themselves in a new country."

Peterborough Mayor Jack Doris said, he too, had come to recognize "how important is the memorial of their (settlers) lives."

"We must never forget the economic and cultural contribution they made to this part of Ontario and Canada," Mr. Doris said.

"It would have been a shame to lose the artifacts," he said.

Mr. Doris says he would like to see anniversaries like this every five years.

In a world where things are being restructured and shrunk, "things like our heritage seem to be less important when they are the most important," he said.

Happy birthday, Lang: Peterborough County's acclaimed Lang Pioneer Village celebrated its 30th anniversary Sunday and Hastings-Peterborough MPP Harry Danford was on hand to present County human resources administrator with a special certificate.

Again, without the volunteers the Village would not "exist, would not function," Mr. Doris noted.

He was also happy to see the large number of children dressed in period costume.

"That ensures the Village's longevity."

"You can feel the spirit of the people who lived here, the spirit of the community they built," Chief Gary Williams of the Curve Lake First Nation said.

Chief Williams also lamented the fact that "a lot of cultural things are put on the backburner."

We must celebrate this cultural and spiritual heritage, he said.

The original Village Project had a $50,000 budget with the County chipping in $25,000. Reconstruction costs would consume more than 50 per cent of the budget so organizers relied strongly on volunteers and local residents who searched basements and attics for artifacts.

The Heating Service delivers

by C.L.Marriott

Tweed -- The Heating Service owner, Tim Scrivner, has decided after 16 years of servicing and installing, all types of heating systems, that he will now offer his 500, or more, customers, oil and diesel delivery. Scrivner says, "customers wanted oil delivery." So he got it.

Scrivner and his experienced crew have offered furnace installation, cleaning, servicing and sales of both oil and gas units, and light plumbing, for some 16 years. Now customers will be able to purchase furnace oil, stove oil, and both clear diesel for vehicles and colored diesel for farm equipment to both present and future customers, within a 10 mile radius of Tweed.

An oil truck was purchased the first week in July, had to be serviced, licensed and lettered, but is now ready for deliveries. The Heating Service offers competitive prices and bonuses. They offer their customers the added advantage of a 1-800 number.

The Heating Service has three service technicians. Jim Wikens, an oil burner technician, has worked with Scrivner for five years and in service "anything" Scrivner. Basil VanAllen, a fully licensed technician, came on board three months ago and Sharon Vannest, who was hired a month ago to handle bookkeeping, telephones and the office. Owner, Tim Scrivner, is also a fully licensed furnace installation and servicing technician.

Joan Smith takes Oakland Greens invitational title

Record crowd flocks to Norwood club

By Bill Freeman

Norwood - The largest crowd ever to participate in the annual Oakland Greens Ladies Invitational took to the links last week with Peterborough's Joan Smith entering the clubhouse with the low gross title.

The hot Kawartha Club member carded a score of 80 to edge Pinecrest's Lynn Dawson who recorded a low gross score of 81 to lead the field of 118 golfers. Earning overall low net honours with a score of 60 was Joan Mark of Newcastle holding off Therese Crebar of Pinecrest who posted a score of 61.

The two Joans received their Oakland Greens trophies from Ladies president Barb Robertson.

Certainly a highlight of the tourney was a hole-in-one by sure-shooting June Aubrook. The Pinecrest golfer fired the ace on the third hole and received a well-deserved ovation from the golfers during the awards ceremony.

Bruce and Marilyn Wharram and their staff at Oakland Greens along with tourney organizers Eileen Young, Margo Masson, Barb Robertson, Leitha Daynes and the entire ladies membership at Oakland Greens are to be commended for their efforts.

Even Mother Nature, who provided a perfect overnight rain, chipped in to make the day a success. Below is a list of flight scores with the scores in brackets.

Bantams wrap league play with solid win

Lakefield - The Norwood bantams wrapped up their Kawartha League schedule Aug. 14 with a convincing 20-13 win over Lakefield.

Rikki Smeltzer led the squad driving in six runs on the strength of three in-the-park home runs and a triple. Jamie Puffer added two triples as well as an in-the-park homer. Also part of the hit parade were Mark Chaplin with three singles and a double; Dave Iley with a single and a home run and Jeff Biddgood with two singles, a double and three stolen bases - including a theft of home plate. With the win, the team finished league action with 11 wins, six losses and one tie. Five of the six losses were by one run.

Summer flower, veggie show defies Mother Nature

Dry weather doesn't curb enthusiasm

By Mel Lounds

Norwood - The Norwood Legion Hall was a riot of colours last Saturday when the Norwood and District Horticulturalists held their annual summer flower and vegetable show.

Despite the current drought conditions, members had nurtured their annual perennial flower specimens, roses of all colours and sizes, flower collections, decorative arrangements, potted plants, house plants and vegetables to provide a most beautiful display and a challenge for judge Hazel Wilson.

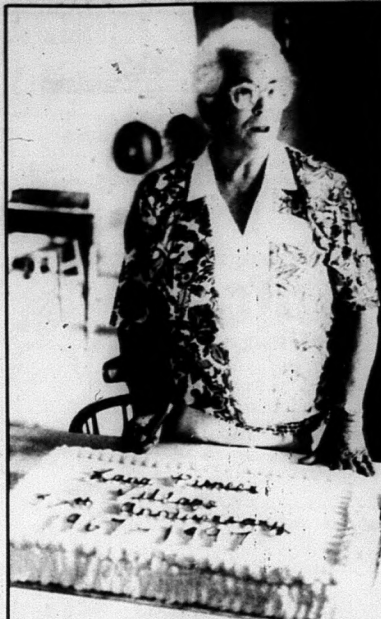

It was also encouraging to have the children take part in the biggest zucchini contest.

The winners of the highest points in the show included Audrey Harris-Gaunt, 83, Evelyn Heron, 73, Laura Stockdale, 71, Mel Lounds, 48, Fern De Bacemacker, 34 and Kathy Reid 33.

The children's section winners were Stephen Stockdale, 1st, Kelly Moher, 2nd and Mandy Moher, 3rd.

For those of our readers who may have wondered during the summer at seeing individuals trotting around Norwood with pails of water at hours when most citizens are still at breakfast, they were not looking for fires to extinguish - they were members of the Horticultural Society watering the 20 floral barrels decorating the business section of the village.

This is their daily contribution to help beautify your community.

Celebration time: Mary Mood was chairman of the organizing committee that helped spearhead efforts to create a living museum at a 25 acre site in the hamlet of Lang. On Sunday, she was extremely proud to cut a cake celebrating the living museum's 30th anniversary.

Charges follow Dummer pursuit

Crime Unit "secures" home

Dummer Twp. - A Kawartha OPP officer responding to an unrelated incident ended up in a short car pursuit in Dummer Township.

Police were responding to a residential intrusion alarm call on the Centre Line in Dummer Twp. around 1 pm on Aug. 15 when they attempted to stop a car near the Centre Line and County Rd. 40.

Police say the car accelerated and they pursued the vehicle for about four kilometres until the driver fled to a Webster Road house.

Charged with dangerous driving was Mark Perdue, 33, of R.R. 2 Lakefield. A court appearance is scheduled for Sept. 9.

Police say there was no connection with the intrusion alarm nor the recovery of a stolen vehicle recovered earlier in the afternoon on Concession 6.

While at the residence, police say an "unrelated matter was discovered involving another person."

The Kawartha OPP's Crime Unit secured the scene and says it is investigating a "substantial" drug related seizure.

$25 million committed to fight serial predators

The announcement follows on the heels of a report released June 23, by the Solicitor General and Minister of Correctional Services Robert Runciman, in response to key recommendations of Justice Archie Campbell's review of the

$25 million committed to fight serial predators

Bernardo investigation. Over $5 million of the 1996 federal budget has already been invested in the Centre of Forensic Sciences including $3 million for the construction of a new biology DNA lab and $2.2 million in new funding to enable the centre to hire 26 new scientists and technicians to expand its capacity. The increased funding is expected to allow the centre to process 44,400 cases per year, by 1999, requiring

DNA analysis (compared to only 150 similar cases in 1994). The government's strategy in implementing the recommendations of the Campbell report is to help protect the public from serial predators and to develop a new way of conducting these critical investigations. Runciman stated "Police investigators from various jurisdictions will no longer work in isolation, but will have access to the same vital information at the same time

That will save lives." The 1997 budget investment is expected to ensure the implementation of several major case management computer system that will manage all relevant case information about suspects, vehicles, witnesses and tips. Automation of scientific testing/analysis and computer systems in the Centre of Forensic Sciences and the Office of the Chief Coroner to make information more readily available and to create effective tracking mechanisms.

Foodlanders take tough loss

Norwood - The Norwood Foodland Under 11's battled the Warkworth Legion in the last game of the regular season and came away with a tough 2-1 loss.

The Foodlanders, playing one man short for the entire game, held the opposition to a 1-1 draw through most of the match.

Scoring in the first half were Norwood's Chris Ridgeway, with assists going to Rob Henderson and Miranda Hendry, and Warkworth's Colin Luntz. End-to-end play highlighted the second half, with chances by both teams to score several times -- Warkworth shooting wide and Norwood shooting over the net.

The break for Warkworth came late in the second half when Norwood was playing two men down due to a minor injury to Amber Brightman. Rebecca Hobbs caught the ball on a wild pass and directed it to Brandon Strang who scored the winner.

The two teams will meet again in the playoffs next week in Warkworth but first the Foodlanders host Hastings at Norwood High on Aug. 26.

Cougars get test in Under 13 playoff opener

Norwood - The J.J. Stewart/Newton Build-All Under 13's edged Colborne 2-1 in the first game of their playoff round robin. This was the lowest scoring game of the season for Norwood and Colborne should be congratulated for making the most of the game.

Scoring for Norwood were Dave Christopoulos and Matt Hills and Stephen McNeely for Colborne.

The Cougars appeared to be plagued by minor injuries on the field and were missing key player Pat Ayotte with an arm fracture.

The U-13's travel to Campbellford to meet their old nemesis, the #1 squad for the second match of the playoffs. On Aug. 26, Wooller arrives in Norwood for game three and the last home game for the undefeated Cougars.

Letter To The Editor

Purchase and demolition of BCI "not routine matter"

Open Letter To Hastings & Prince Edward County Roman Catholic Separate School Board

Re: Belleville Collegiate Institute or "BCI"

The sale of BCI has now been formalized and in accordance with your plans we expect you will want to proceed with the demolition of the BCI building to provide for a playing field.

We would presume the purchase of this property is a relatively routine matter in the execution of your mandate to provide the physical plant to meet educational and recreational objectives. This letter is to convey to your Board and to all separate school supporters who have upheld the decision to buy BCI, that this is no routine matter in the minds of many citizens of the Belleville community.

At its meeting on May 26 this year, Belleville City Council received a number of deputations concerned about the future of BCI. One group, known as "Citizens for B.C.I.V.S., for Heritage Designation", presented Council with petitions and letters of over 3,000 names supporting the resolution "that BCI be designated a building of historical and architectural importance". It is interesting to note, this number represented about 10 per cent of the voting population of Belleville and the response was obtained in less than 10 days. Still, the resolution was lost (two members absent), but Council subsequently passed a motion (5 to 4) to ask your Board to grant a 90-day moratorium on the demolition of the building. We now ask you to honor this request from Council by delaying your purchase of the BCI property until Dec. 31, 1997.

To some the BCI building is a sentimental symbol with historical significance, but to many it is a building in excellent physical condition with an outstanding auditorium, located in the very heart of our city. The many citizens who are still concerned about the fate of BCI and who never truly believed it would be demolished, want to seriously explore, with all interested parties, including members of Council, the Quinte Arts Council and others, the possibility of an alternate use for this property.

At the same Council meeting on May 26, another resolution was passed, item 229/97, in part: "That further to the Review Committee's May 14, 1997 Report (Public Library Project), it be agreed that the Community needs would best be met through a phased development of a cultural centre designed to meet the needs of the Library, Quinte Arts Council and the Parks and Recreation Department, and; that a new search for an appropriate site be undertaken, prior to final planning for the cultural centre, and that should the City of Belleville participate in the Canada Infrastructure Program, the cultural centre be considered as one of its priority applications, and...

Our purpose for a meeting with your Board is to discuss how this BCI matter can best be resolved in the interests of the entire community. The basis of our discussions should be the feasibility of this fine building and its location to serve as a Community Cultural Centre, thus providing a much needed facility to benefit the greatest number of citizens. We have a plan to determine the extent of the community interest in such a project. If this interest is significant, we are confident it will convince the authorities of the worth of BCI to the community, including your own separate school supporters. We plan a small delegation, consisting of 10 members, to meet with your Board. In the interest of the new municipality of Belleville and Thurflow and its citizens, we ask that you meet with our delegation at the earliest possible date. We suggest a meeting no later than the first week in September.

Local MPP introduces United Empire Loyalists' Day Act

Hastings-Peterborough MPP Harry Danford announced the introduction of the United Empire Loyalists' Day Act 1997. If passed by the provincial legislature this bill would designate June 19 as Empire Loyalists' Day in Ontario.

"The Loyalist heritage is an important part of Ontario's history," Danford said. "The Loyalist migration was the first multicultural immigration to Ontario. Loyalists were not just English, but were German, Iroquois, French, Dutch and Scots. This is something that we should celebrate."

"June 19th is an appropriate day since it recognizes one of the most important events leading up to the creation of the Province of Ontario as we now know it."

June 19th is the anniversary of the Constitutional Act of 1791 receiving Royal Assent. The Constitutional Act was passed as a direct result of the Loyalist influence in what was then Quebec. It was this act created Upper Canada, the predecessor to the Province of Ontario. The Constitutional Act of 1791 also set up a court system and a system of landholding, that would have been familiar to many of the Loyalists, and that is still in use today.

"The United Empire Loyalists' Association of Canada enthusiastically endorses Mr. Danford's proposal to name June 19th as United Empire Loyalists' Day," said Bernice Flett, President of the United Empire Loyalists' Association of Canada. "Without the Loyalists, Ontario as we know it today would likely not exist."

"It is important that the province recognize the historic contribution the Loyalists made and their descendants continue to make, to the development of Ontario," Danford said. "I hope that all members of the legislature will help me in designating June 19th as United Empire Loyalists' Day."

April 16. The weather is beautiful. The farmers are getting ready for their spring work. A good many of them have their ground ready for the seed. Sugar making is over. There has been a great deal of it made. Mr. R. R. Hannah, our general merchant, is shipping eggs this year again. He reports them very plentiful. Mr. Edmund Kerr of Millbridge, was the guest of R. R. Hannah, and spent Sunday with him. He wonders why they do not have religious services in that place - a very good population and good Christian people among them, with no Minister to preach to them. Mr. Embury and Mr. Geo. Potts, of the vicinity of Tweed, were buying pigs in this neighborhood last week. While Mr. Thos. Green was taking his hogs to the factory his horses became unmanageable, and upset the wagon, and besides throwing out the contents gave him a severe gash in his head, and one of the hogs was killed.

Local business offers Internet access

by Jeff Wilson

If you have an urge to surf the Internet, Madoc Video can provide the access.

In an interview, Madoc Video Owner Mark Beaulieu said he decided to begin offering Internet access because he recognized a need for public access in the area.

The Internet service has received good response so far, Beaulieu said. Customers have ranged from the younger ones who enjoy accessing the chat line areas, to older ones who research hobbies, businesses, as well as seek family tree information, he said.

Beaulieu, who has had three years experience on the Internet from both a user and technical point of view, said most of the general public are not aware of the wealth of information that is at their fingertips on the Internet.

"Once you find a link you can circumnavigate the world three times in just 10 minutes," he said.

For those who feel they are computer illiterate, Beaulieu said in just 15 minutes he can provide the necessary tools to allow everyone to comfortably navigate the Internet on their own.

As well as offering personal hands-on service, Madoc Video also will download information and print it for people who do not have the time to research a topic on their own. Beaulieu recalled a friend's daughter who was researching for a project on Terry Fox, and was unable to find sufficient information. In just 15 minutes he was able to access 20 pages of information on Terry Fox.

The store has been offering access to the Internet for the past month.

People interested in surfing the Net, can gain access for an hour for $5.

by Chris Bertelsen

Contrary to prevailing rumors in Madoc, I, Christian Bertelsen, son of Niels Bertelsen of Bancroft, am not dead, at least not the last time I checked my vital signs. I was the one who set the grass fire in the spring causing temporary employment for two fire departments and a crew of Natural Resources people from Haliburton who luckily happened to be in the area fighting three other grass fires.

This tale begins when a burnt out couple from Burlington decided to forsake breathing sulphur and drinking Lake Ontario water polluted with God only knows what and retire to Madoc. My wife and I both suffered from high blood pressure, recurrent ulcers, and in my case the added social embarrassment of irritable bowel syndrome, chronic sinusitis, and skin rashes; all stress related.

With the competent help of Steve Morley of Remax Realty and our friends the Sextons on Monro Lake we took a year to research the area. We finally lucked out and bought the Ron Devolin Farm just north of the fairgrounds. We thought we had gone to heaven. In a month all our symptoms either disappeared or dropped to near normal.

We were however some what concerned when just about every person we met in Madoc Village (when we told them where we had bought) would tell us "Oh ya, just north of the fairgrounds and Highway 7 where the temperature and the I.Q. drops."

We were also told that to fit in we had to wear boots, jeans, a mink hockey baseball cap, drive a truck, and own a tractor (or a four-wheeler), so we rushed out and bought these. We also learned to play euchre, bowl and pitch horse shoes.

The farm is actually like a 78 acre "Provincial Park" with hay fields, marsh land, a pond and 20 acres of mature mixed hardwoods. Madoc Creek runs right through it. It is well fenced because Jack Devolin used to run beef cattle on it. We thought it would be a good place for our children (8) and grandchildren and serve as a haven for our stressed out friends.

We decided to name it Shiloh Farm. Shiloh used to be a hamlet north of Rockwood, Ontario and biblical also told us that it was the name of the site where the Ark of the Covenant was kept until moved to the great temple in Jerusalem.

When we first met the people we bought the farm from, Doris and Doug Keittyle, we found in them and their family some of the kindest and most hospitable people we have ever met. Doug and I were kin-

Tales From Shiloh Farm

dred spirits it turned out and we became inseparable, sharing everything and working together. Doug was a remarkable human being. Among other great accomplishments he, at the age of 72, with a bad heart, severed off two acres of the farm and with the help of only one hired hand during the week and family and friends during the weekend, he designed, drafted and built a log house with three floors. The top floor for his granddaughter, the middle floor for themselves and the bottom floor was to be the future retirement home for his eldest daughter and son-in-law. He insisted on a fire engine red roof and from Highway 7 it looks like Pizza Hut. You can't miss it.

At the same time, because Doris would not let their two cats in the house, he built a two-storey cat house with windows at each floor, a swinging door, carpets on both floors, and get this, a heater which was thermostatically controlled. The roof swung open to service the condo was of course fire engine red. He loved all animals except groundhogs. He shot every one on the farm because their holes were a danger to cows and horses. You see he was a farmer, turned Navy Gunner, turned plumber.

We have the most wonderful neighbors, some of whom I call frustrated farmers because they have retired, but still own a bit of acreage. They like to bomb around on their tractors doing all kinds of chores.

Ron Devolin came over and plowed out our lane ways in winter and did some bush hogging. His wife Marion invited us to play progressive euchre at the Haris-Riggs Women's Institute every second Wednesday and there we met many of our other neighbors. Reg and Joan Moucks invited us to church and also keep an eye on our barn and are right there if a strange vehicle pulls in.

Tom and Kim Delrented their farm house until they get the oil basement of their house and thus have been next door neighbors good people they last but not least Gerard Forestell come several times helped unload the offered us the use tractor whenever we it, Burlington, the neighbors did not us because we did the Chem-Lawn for weed control.

My wife and I God brought us together to Shiloh farm. Every I walk to the to hill overlooking the paradise on earth "O Lord, I greet the ing with a glad heart thank you for the b and blessings you bestowed on me and n ones."

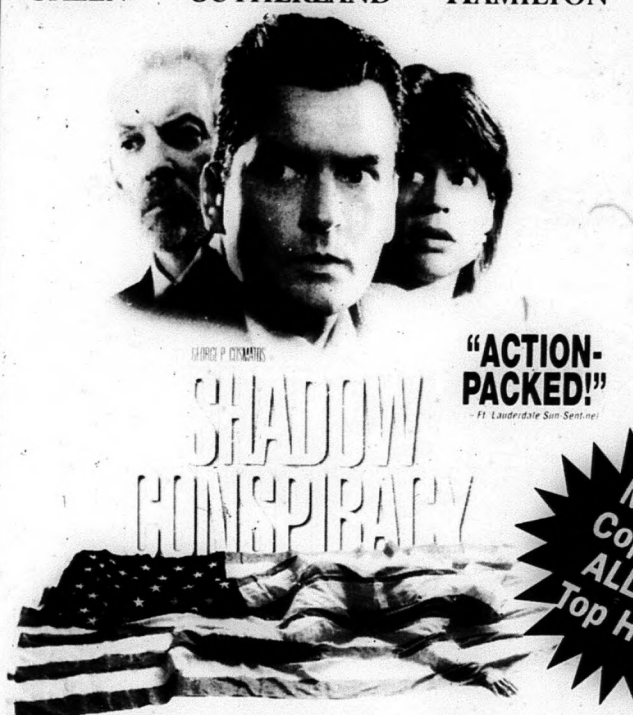

Then I think God to test us, probably we might have been little too snug about good fortune. We had of pure joy and then fire came and then thereafter my wife died. Then two weeks my mother died of a sive heart attack. Kettles were at the Two days later Kettley had a massive attack putting up a trough in the noon day I ended up giving him until the ambulance but we never got a Little did I know that my eulogy at my funeral was also addressed to Doris and her farm will be fondly remembered and sorely missed by

Now to the point cause half of Madoc Doug (previous owner) set the fire and people going around saying the guy who set the fire of a heart attack, the one knew it was I who fire thought I had d you are still confused number is in the book way, people are still ing up to me and "you're alive!! You posed to be dead". days I feel that way, ever, the last time I ch my vital signs they sh a bit of life still left.

Madoc-Huntingdon Transition Board discuss staff job position

by Jeff Wilson

The Madoc-Huntingdon Transition Board has approved a job description for building, plumbing, bylaw enforcement position for the new municipality of Centre Hastings.

The position will be advertised in the local newspapers. The deadline for applications will be Sept. 19 at 12 noon. The current employees will be provided with the job description and given an opportunity to apply. The board held an closed-in-camera session at the conclusion of the meeting to discuss salary range. In earlier discussion it was suggested the salary for position should be in the range of the combined money both municipalities spent for the service in 1997.

On the issue of computer systems, Township Councillor Larry Mitt provided a detailed report on the computer systems currently in operation in both municipalities. He recommended that the board maintain the system used by Huntingdon Township, because it is currently used by most municipalities in the area and would allow for easier transition for possible additional amalgamations. Township Clerk-Treasurer Bonnie Jones was also in favor of maintaining the Huntingdon system. Since she will be handling the treasury and tax collection duties, she preferred to work on a system she knew and was comfortable with. Village Clerk-Treasurer Doug Parks stated that his only problem with the township system was it was difficult to make program changes. He added that with the village's system program changes are easily obtained, while with the township system any changes to be approved by a group of municipalities using the system.

Auditors, Humpage Taylor McDonald provided a cost estimate of between $750 to $900 to review the two municipalities' computer systems and make a recommendation on a preferred system.

Mitt stated he was against spending further money, feeling his report provided enough data for the board to make a decision. The board decided not take any action on the cost estimate and received and filed it.

The board asked Mitt to contact both computer system providers to enquire if both computer systems could handle the needs of the new municipality, and report back to the board.

On the issue of the upcoming election, Jones told the board, that after some discussion with other area municipalities, Centre Hastings should eliminate the advance poll, as well as proxy votes. She added that one poll will be set up in the Huntingdon Township hall and one poll at the Madoc Village office on election day. Village Reeve Tom Deline stated he was worried about adequate staffing levels to handle vote counting. Jones said that under this set-up there will be eight people, with two people assigned to each poll on election day and two people assigned to cover the mail-in ballots. In the last election there were 14 people assigned to handle vote counting, four in the village and 10 in the township.

The board passed a by-law to allow mail-in voting in the coming election.

A letter was received from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs regarding amalgamation effects on the hydro commission.

The letter, written by Warren Sleeth, a senior municipal advisor stated that the hydro commission becomes the commission of the new municipality, with the reeve and two commissioners to be appointed by council, making up the composition of the new commission. Sleeth also stated that the relationship between the new council and the new commission will be "at arms length". The commission will operate under regulations in the Public Utilities Act. Township Councillor Daye Schulz questioned the term

Village council members declare candidacy

by Jeff Wilson

Two Madoc Village council members have declared they will run for positions on the new Centre Hastings Township council.

Reeve Tom Deline has announced he will seek the reeve's position for the new amalgamated municipality, while Councillor Crichton Harrop has said he will run for councillor of the Madoc ward.

In an interview, Deline said he had been considering running all along and finally made his plans public to let everyone know his intentions.

Deline said he decided to run because with the amalgamation between the village and the township, he felt council would need someone who had experience at the county level, as well as dealing with different provincial ministries, which he possesses.

"I was part of the transition so I certainly should be prepared to help make it work. I feel an obligation to try and make it work," he said.

In an interview, Harrop said he made his decision to run on July 26.

His decision to run came after the realization during transition board meetings that members of the new council are going to have to be experienced.

"I don't think this process is for someone new, you're going to need to know all the ins and outs," he said.

Harrop said his experience comes in the area of water and sewer, as well as landfill, working in those areas for 12 years on council. He added that it is important for someone who is familiar with the water and sewer system to get points across to make sure the system is not harmed and necessary improvements are undertaken.

He foresees the first term of the new council as a "difficult, busy three years... with more meetings than ever before, requiring people to work together."

Stickwood's to takeover V & S department store in Madoc Village

Cotter Canada Hardware and Variety Cooperative Inc. of Winnipeg, Manitoba announced on Friday, Aug. 22 that Stickwood's Dry Goods will take over the operation of the V & S Department Store in the village.

Answering the call of area residents to retain a V & S Department Store in Madoc, this long-time family business will be remercised with a greatly expanded product assessment, and repositioned to current V & S Department Store standards.

Patrons and local merchants have expressed disappointment with the pending closure of Willard Wasson's V & S Department Store on Sept. 27. Mr. Wasson, who owns two locations has just completed a major addition to his Pictou store, and has decided to focus his full time attention there. A store-wide sale continues, as Mr. Wasson prepares to transfer all remaining stock to his Pictou operation.

Founded in 1935 by Howard Stickwood, the store has become a fixture to the downtown core of Madoc.

Following Howard's retirement, the business was passed to his son Larry. Today, Larry's son Greg is the third generation of Stickwoods to play an active role in the operation of the company. Joining the progressive V & S chain of independent merchants will allow Larry and Greg to expand their

Madoc Scouts attend 9th Canada Jamboree

On July 10, eight scouts and two adult leaders from the 1st Madoc Scout Troop left for Thunder Bay to attend the 9th Canada Jamboree. The trip was a culmination of almost two years of fundraising and planning for the group.

The Canada Jamboree, otherwise known as "CJ '97", occurs every four years somewhere in Canada. To allow youth from all over a chance to attend, the CJ's have been held in Alberta, Prince Edward Island and most recently in Thunder Bay.

The Canada Jamboree is an opportunity for thousands of youth, leaders and support volunteers to come together in fun, fellowship and learning. The week-long events filled with daily events designed to develop skills, challenge the youth and create a learning environment while allowing everyone to enjoy themselves. For CJ '97, 13,856 participants joined in, creating a medium sized city overnight!

After two days of solid driving and seeing four moose, the Scouts arrived at the CJ site with pleasant news that they only had to carry their gear for about 400 m rather than the anticipated 1.5 kms. After spending most of Saturday setting up camp and becoming familiar with the new surroundings, the group joined everyone else for the opening ceremonies.

On hand for the grand entry was Romeo LeBlanc, Canada's Chief Scout, and Ovide Mercredi, the National Chief of the Assembly of First Nations. After a few words of congratulations and encouragement the stage was turned over to the musical group, the Barenaked Ladies. A turns out, every one of the very talented musicians once part of the scout movement at some time. They even offered some advice to the Scouts about what happens when you drink much pop before bed.

out, was everything a Scout could ask for: mud, dirt, navigating a very strenuous obstacle course while the whole time not giving a care about ever getting your clothes clean again! Everyone should try mud badminton or volleyball at least, once in their lives; you'll never forget the experience.

The rest of the week was a collection of strenuous activities, skill testing relays and courses, visits to historical places and an opportunity to learn about our First Nations up close. The Scouts quickly learned that it is not easy trying to play basketball in the water while suspended in an inner tube. Similarly, it is extremely difficult trying to walk on water on a pair of floatation platforms, or to play soccer with an eight foot soccer ball. One afternoon was spent in such activities as Shot and Bike where everyone had to hit a target with 10 shots from a rifle and then navigate a cross-country bicycle course in quite difficult terrain. After this, they attended the Luge event where they had to travel down one of the off-season ski slopes on a piece of carpet. The slope was greater than 45 degrees and extremely fast for those who dared the ride.

The Scouts were also able to attend a number of First Nations activities. One afternoon, neighboring First Nations hosted the Scouts at a Pow Wow where the youth were able to learn a number of different native dances including the shawl, traditional, jingle dress and hoop dances. Many of your youth eagerly joined with the dancers and finished the day with a traditional feast prepared by the native people.

On another day, the Scouts were able to learn first hand from a native elder her beliefs and ways of her people. The Scouts were surprised to hear that she only taught herself to speak English a few years earlier when her daughter attended school. It turned out to be a very informative session.

An afternoon was spent on a guided tour of Old Fort William, one of the earliest trading posts developed by the Northwest Trading Company. The Scouts learned how difficult it is to play "shimmy" and how hard the fur traders worked carrying their 90 lb. bundles.

Lady takes a bow: "Lady GoldDiver", a peregrine falcon from Jungle Cat World was a majestic sight when she appeared during a presentation at the fifth annual Hastings Chamber of Commerce Home and Leisure show. Handlers at Jungle Cat World are in the process of teaching Lady to fly. Peregrine falcons are an endangered species and government efforts to reintroduce them into the wild have, like a lot of things, been hindered by cutbacks. Photo/Bill Freeman

Midgets strike first in championship joust

Norwood takes see-saw battle 9-4

Innerkip- The Norwood midgets are one win away from an Ontario Rural Softball Association (ORSA) title after defeating Innerkip 9-4 Monday night.

With one rain-out and another rescheduled match, the series finally started on the road Aug. 25 with Kevin Deen creating some early thunder with a home run blast that gave Norwood a quick 2-0 lead.

Innerkip answered back with one of their own but Jason Heffernan equalled that in the next inning.

The home team tied it up again but Heffernan did some more damage with another home run.

Innerkip notched things up in the fourth inning but Norwood would not quit and after Cale Gontier and Deen reached base, Kristian Partington powered a triple to the fence. Partington later scored on Chris Puffer's hit and Heffernan and Puffer would add one run each.

Deen, going the distance on the mound, shut down Innerkip to secure the 9-4 win.

Coach Al Partington said the game went "back and forth but our guys never quit."

"It was nice to see them answer every challenge and basically wear them down," Coach Partington added.

Water spout touches down on Twin Sisters Lake

A Toronto cottager had a bit of a scare last Wednesday night, as a water spout touched down on Twin Sisters Lake around 7:30 p.m., just prior to a violent thunder storm that swept through the area.

Dennis O'Neill called Cembal Publications to report seeing the spout about 20 feet off the shore. A water spout is a smaller tornado that forms over bodies of water.

4-H'ers show their stuff in Norwood

Big Achievement Day held at Norwood Fairgrounds

Norwood - Nearly 100 4-H Club members from around Peterborough County descended on the Norwood Fairgrounds recently to showcase their talents and energy during the 1997 Achievement Day program.

Traditionally part of the Peterborough Exhibition, the big 4-H program earned a date in Norwood because of changes to the EX's summer schedule.

Among the enthusiastic representatives in Norwood were members of the Ennismore Beef 4-H Club, Peterborough North Beef 4-H Club, Peterborough South Beef 4-H Club, the Ottonabee Field Crops 4-H Club, the Norwood Dairy 4-H Club, Ottonabee Dairy 4-H Club, the Peterborough Dairy 4-H Club and the Peterborough West Dairy 4-H Club.

Leaders with the Beef Clubs were David Cavanagh and Paul Murray, Ennismore; Cyndi Leahy and Gordon Ray, Peterborough North and Les Hutchinson and Paul and Judy Walsh, Peterborough South.

The Dairy Club leaders are Dean Warner, David Stockdale and Francis Crowley, Norwood; Diane Armstrong and Steve Stillman, Ottonabee; Gerald Coughlin and Jerry Jopling, Peterborough and Jamie Sullivan and Scott

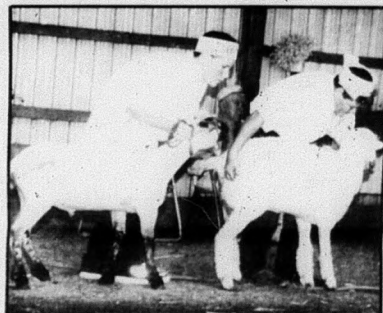

Armstrong, Peterborough West.

Judging the dairy classes in Norwood was Harold Patterson while Juanita Elmhirst was the beef class judge. Bryon Heeringa judged the field crops.

Below is a list of top three placings in the various Achievement day classes.

Fall Children's Martial Arts

Tweed -- The Tweed Children's martial arts program is in full swing again this fall. Registration for the Wed. after school classes is on Sept. 10 at 3:45 p.m. in the SHC Connor School gym. Classes run from 3:45 to 4:45, followed by a class for advanced students. Children are instructed in the proper ethical behaviour absolutely necessary for real martial arts training. Respect, consideration for others, discipline, responsibility and good manners are central to the training. The Ultimate goal of the program is "mastery over the self". Children also learn leadership skills and over the last few years, the program has developed a core group of excellent junior leaders. Streetproofing is also an important part of the program. Children learn when to use their self defence training. Violence, especially in the schoolyard, is forbidden.

The program has been taught to children in Eastern Ontario for the last 24 years. Courses are approved and sanctioned by a number of major associations including the Snow-Tiger Martial Arts Assoc., the Kai Shin Karate Assoc. and the Canadian Jiu Jitsu Council.

Program instructor Robert Walther has been training in martial arts since 1964. He was awarded with an Instructor of the Year Award from the World Black Belt Hall of Fame in 1991. For information call 473-4366.

Police warning after collision at accident site

Use caution when visiting roadside shrine: OPP

Norwood - There were no injuries, and damage was very minimal, in a two-vehicle collision Aug. 21 that occurred at the site of a horribly tragic highway seven accident that claimed two lives.

Kawartha OPP say that 16-year-old Denise Stoter of Otonabee Township was driving west on highway seven and waiting to turn left onto the Blezzard Line when her car was hit from behind by another westbound car.

Stoter and her passengers had just left Norwood after attending a memorial service for their 18-year-old friend Scott Clement who was killed in an accident at the same location exactly seven days earlier.

Her car was hit by a car driven by Eric Lamoureux, 17, of Gloucester, who was travelling with friends to Wasaga Beach.

Lamoureux was charged with careless driving.

This minor accident has caused police to issue a reminder to drivers and pedestrians visiting a roadside shrine of flowers and tributes left to remember the two teens killed.

"In itself, this is not a major distraction, or a concern, of police or the ministry of transportation at this time," says Senior Constable Debbie Belisle.

Sr. Const. Belisle says they "appreciate the need" for the bereaved to "express their emotions and sympathy, especially teenaged friends of the victims."

She says police and the MTO hope that people stopping at the shrine "exercise caution and good judgment." "The highway is busy and there has been enough tragedy."

"Exercise caution and good judgment. The highway is busy and there has been enough tragedy."

Greetings from Catalina...
Catalina, the Macaw, will now welcome visitors to Forever Yours Art Gallery in Havelock through the month of September. Owner Paula Chopik proudly poses with seven-year-old Catalina, who is the star attraction of Paula's rather large sign designed by Chris Lincoln, of Lincoln Signs, Havelock. Those visiting will be greeted by Catalina's cheery "Hello, Pretty Bird!" or "How are you?" before going into the gallery to view a wide variety of limited edition artworks. Catalina's first day on the job was a success, as she and Paula had a number of visitors.

Province calls for special investigator to look into gasoline pricing

David Tsubouchi, minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations called on the federal government to appoint a "special investigator" to look into gasoline pricing, on Thursday.

He told the provincial legislature a special investigator was needed to "ensure Canadian consumers benefit from competitive gasoline pricing."

"The issue of ensuring fair competition in the gasoline marketplace crosses provincial boundaries and is the responsibility of the federal government under the Competition Act. However, the federal government continues to demonstrate a lack of interest in taking action that will protect Ontario and Canadian consumers against the undesirable market practices being conducted by petroleum companies relating to gasoline pricing," Tsubouchi said.

The Minister called for all parties to support a resolution he tabled in the legislature on Thursday, urging the federal government to "address this problem of national dimensions by amending the Competition Act to address pricing practices within the gasoline industry and appoint a special investigator to review the situation and make recommendations to ensure that Canadian consumers benefit from competitive and transparent gasoline prices across this country."

The resolution will also be presented at a federal-provincial consumer ministers' conference in Regina on Sept. 10 and 11.

"I am seeking expressions of support from both opposition parties and all members of this House, which will enable me to have the full backing of the Ontario Legislature in presenting Ontario's position to the federal-provincial conference," Tsubouchi said.

He also said he had contacted federal Industry Minister John Manley, met with the Independent Retail Gasoline Marketers Association and other independent gasoline retailers and has written to the major petroleum companies demanding that "steps be taken to resolve this issue."

Eldorado Men's League Final Tourney

The Eldorado Men's League held their season ending tournament at the Eldorado ball park, last weekend. (Top left) In the "A" Championship game the Tannery defeated the Tribe in an extra inning, nail bitter. The teams were tied at 2-2 after the regulation seven innings. In extra innings the international rule was applied, with a runner placed at second base prior to the first batter stepping to the plate. Both teams scored two runs in the eighth inning, and then in the 10th the Tannery scored twice to win 6-5. In the "B" Championship B & B Allstars (above) took on Queensborough and came away with a 21-12 victory. The Allstars jumped out to an early 15-3 lead, before Queensborough came back to make the score 15-12. The Allstars added a few insurance runs to win by nine.
